

CBS Head Didn't Know About Fixing Until August, 1958

Threw Guilty Programs Off Air, He States

Washington—Dr. Frank Stanton, president of Columbia Broadcasting System, told house investigators today he was completely unaware of TV quiz show irregularities before August, 1958, and then acted promptly to throw the offending programs off the air.

One program, he said, was cancelled within a week and action taken against three other quiz shows within six months of the time he first learned something was wrong. The investigators recessed their investigation of TV quiz show scandals today with word they plan to broaden their inquiry into other phases of television.

Chairman Oren Harris said the evidence he has gathered means "the conduct and morality of the whole television industry has been challenged."

He said information which has come to the subcommittee indicating that other phases of television beside quiz shows need investigation, and that the subcommittee staff already has started preliminary work.

As the concluding witness in a house investigation of television practices and quiz shows, Stanton acknowledged that "in the face of what we know now, we didn't exercise due diligence."

"Hindsight is always perfect," he added.

Asserting the TV quiz show scandals "have been a bitter pill for us to swallow," Stanton declared it is now up to the broadcasting industry itself to assume chief responsibility for correcting the industry's ills.

"We believe that legislation is no cure-all for these ills and that the primary responsibility lies with the broadcasting industry itself. CBS is moving forward in that conviction."

Proposes Legislation
Stanton did not go all the way with the position taken yesterday by Robert E. Kintner, president of the National Broadcasting company, who advocated enactment of legislation making it a federal crime to rig TV quiz programs.

Stanton's testimony today also reinforced the CBS policy placed in effect last month banning all big money quiz and giveaway shows from the network.

"We were forced to the conclusion that we could never be sure about these programs as presently conceived," he testified. "There is always the danger that these programs may be rigged in one way or another."

"When gossip about quiz shows in general came to my attention, I was assured by our television network people that these shows were com-

Equipment Puts 4-Inch Snow In Its Place

Earliest Yet for Road Work; Cold Weather to Set in

Snow shovels were put into action and street equipment pushed the Fox Cities first 4-inch snow fall into orderly mounds this morning. The weatherman promises sunny skies and nippy temperatures for the weekend.

This is one of the earliest dates in November on which snow control work had to be performed in Appleton. A similar snowfall was recorded Nov. 3, 1951, with temperatures of 5 Nov. 6 and 9 Nov. 7, the Wisconsin-Michigan weather recorder said.

Salts Out
The heavy white flakes began to fall about 2 p. m. Thursday and continued until late in the night. Temperatures fell with the snow. A low of 20 was recorded. Winds reached a high of 20 miles an hour at 1:15 a. m. this morning.

Street salters and sanders were sent to the hills and key intersections late Thursday afternoon. Work went on through late evening and is continuing today.

Four graders were put on plowing duty about midnight Thursday on College avenue.

SAGE Alert Causes Brief TV Blackout

Three television stations serving the Fox Cities and several radio stations in northeastern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan went off the air for about 20 minutes Thursday because of a false Conelrad air raid alert.

"Someone goofed" was the explanation given by a spokesman for the 30th division of the Air Defense command SAGE installation in Madison at Truax field.

WJPG Affected
Capt. Harry Scarborough, information officer for the division, said the "human error," which occurred at 5:02 p. m., was detected and corrected within 20 minutes and that as far as he knew no interceptor planes were sent up.

The alert apparently was sent only to WJPG, Green Bay, Conelrad control station for northeastern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. WJPG Engineer Don Park-

Paid Emcees, Columnists

Thousands Spent for 'Plugs,' Witness Says

Washington—A publicity man for the Hess Brothers department store in Allentown, Pa., says the firm spent thousands of dollars to get "plugs" for the store in television, radio and newspaper columns.

The assertion came from Max Levine, who said that public relations firms were paid to make such arrangements.

Levine testified yesterday before the house subcommittee investigating quiz show fixing.

Without giving details, Levine singled out NBC's television programs "Today" featuring Dave Garroway and the "Tonight" show; and the CBS Garry Moore and "Person to Person" programs.

Levine said columnists who mentioned the store included Bob Considine of the Hearst syndicate, Stanton Delaplane of the McNaught Syndicate, Earl Wilson of the Hall Syndicate and Hal Boyle of the Associated Press.

NBC Plans Quiz
NBC said it would investigate Levine's assertion. CBS made no immediate comment.

In New York, Considine said that "several years ago I made a personal appearance at the Max Hess store. It was an appearance such as I have

Diaries Offer Clue to Fate of 5 in Desert

BY ANTOINE YARED
Cairo—Excerpts from the diaries of two Americans and two Frenchmen who vanished in the Nubian desert last summer were published today and shed a glimmer of light on the tragic voyage.

"I'm going to search for water," said one entry.

Bodies of the two Frenchmen and one of the Americans, John Armstrong of Belleville, N.J., were found by an Egyptian desert patrol along with the battered body of their native guide.

The other American, former Air Force Lt. Donald Shannon, 28, of Milwaukee, Wis., is still missing.

Translate Diaries
The morning newspaper Al Ahram, which printed the excerpts, said a full text of the diaries found near the bodies is being translated into Arabic to aid Egyptian investigators seeking details of how the travelers met their deaths.

The party set out from Aswan, in southern Egypt, on July 27 in two small cars for the Sudan border town of Wadi Halfa. They apparently lost their way in the 130-degree heat, and the patrol came across the bodies three months later.

The body of the guide was found in the back seat of one of the cars. His skull had been fractured, and a blood-stained wrench lay nearby, leading to speculation he had been killed in a fight over the last of the group's water.

County Taxes Increase $61,060, Budget Less

Supervisors Decline to Use Contingency Funds; Levy Totals $1,487,689

BY JACK GLASNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Outagamie county will levy a $1,487,689 property tax on its municipalities next year to finance its operations. The levy is $61,062 more than that required this year, although the total $2,963,455 budget is $130,589 less than 1959.

Main reason for the higher levy despite a lower total budget is that supervisors during their 4-day meeting declined to take as much from the county's contingency fund next year as last. In 1959, more than $130,000 was used to offset the levy, while for 1960 supervisors took $75,000, which was their executive board's recommendation.

The Appleton Taxpayers association, which asked the board to up its revenues by $140,000 during the first day's hearing, won a small victory when the board upped its income tax payment estimate by $25,000, to $350,000. This year supervisors missed the amount paid by more than $81,000 when they set it at $275,000.

No Policy Change
However, in upping the estimate the county board has not changed its fundamental policy of maintaining a contingency fund large enough to take care of most eventualities: the $250,000 share of the Menasha University of Wisconsin extension center last year, for instance. The contingency fund is about $140,000 and will swell to in excess of $200,000 by the end of the year.

Supervisors also improved the tax levy picture — which was some $112,000 more than this year's at one point — by dropping from the budget a $25,000 addition to the county's $360,000 self-insurance program.

Fund Future?
The future and purpose of this fund is unknown to everyone, Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer pointed out during the meeting. For years the board has placed money in the fund and apparently has regarded it as a sort of last resort for funds when the board wanted to spend mon-

The 284 men, women and children of the village will receive 25 shares each, currently selling for $48.25 a share. The Saturnos say they want to commemorate the memory of their parents who came from the village and promote international good will.

Foster Sister Leads 3 Out of Burning Home

Milwaukee — Three small children were led to safety by their 21-year-old foster sister when fire broke out in a bowling alley and home early today during some of the coldest weather of the season.

The four were helped from a second floor rear porch by two policemen, who spotted the blaze, and a passerby. Damage was estimated by Fire Chief McCabe at $100,000.

The 3-alarm fire was spotted at 2:45 a. m. in Sommers Lanes and brought under control about 5:30 a. m. One fireman was overcome by smoke and hospitalized.

The bowling alley, which also included a tavern and restaurant, contained the home of the operators, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Treptow who had gone to a nearby restaurant after closing for the night.

At home were their children, two boys and a girl ranging in age from 4 to 10 years, who were in the care of their foster sister, Dorothy Feld. When the blaze broke out she took them to the rear porch.

Alanbrooke Explains

Says He Didn't Intend to Suggest Eisenhower Golfed During Invasion

BY RONALD THOMSON

London—Viscount Alanbrooke said today he had no intention of suggesting in his wartime diaries that President Eisenhower played golf at a vital stage of the 1944 invasion of Europe. The wartime chief of Britain's general staff said in a telephone interview he merely meant Eisenhower was at his headquarters, situated on a golf links, just before the crucial battle of the Bulge.

Alanbrooke's controversial phrase came in a section of the diaries, published last weekend in a book called "Triumph in the West," criticizing Eisenhower's conduct of the war as supreme allied commander. Dated Nov. 24, 1944, the entry claimed there was a "very unsatisfactory state of affairs in France with no one running the land battle."

"Eisenhower, though supposed to be doing so, is on the golf links at Reims — entirely detached and taking practically no part in the war," it said.

Ike Doesn't Reply
This did not mean Eisenhower was on the links for the usual purpose — to play golf, Alanbrooke insisted. He told the Associated Press: "I had no intention of suggesting that the president actually played golf at that time. If you look in the diaries you'll see there was no accusation that he had any golf clubs and there was no accusation that he was playing golf. You might just as well say that I was accusing Eisenhower of drinking champagne because he was at Reims."

Reims is a center of the French champagne industry. Alanbrooke declined to discuss the implication of his diary entry and whether it gave a misleading impression. He said he meant only to refer to the fact that Eisenhower's headquarters at the time were in the clubhouse of a disused golf course at Reims.

"I think I even described in

No Progress In Steel Talks

Deadlock Remains Unbroken During 115th Day of Dispute

Washington—The steel strike today entered its 115th day with peace talks at a standstill, and not a sign from any direction that a settlement might be near.

The nation—and the deadlocked industry and union negotiators — still awaited the supreme court's injunction ordering the 500,000 striking steel workers back to their jobs for 80 days.

Whether the ruling would come today or later remained the court's own secret. The government obtained the injunction in federal court in Pittsburgh more than two weeks ago, but it has been held in abeyance pending the outcome of appeal.

Proposes New Powers
In obtaining the back-to-work order, the government argued that the strike menaced the public health and safety—a contention the striking United Steelworkers union fought vigorously, all the way up through the supreme court's hearing on the appeal Tuesday.

On Capitol Hill Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) announced he will ask congress next year to give the president potent new powers to halt strikes threatening to create national emergencies.

32 Missing in Himalayan Area

Katmandu, Nepal — Thirty-two persons are reported missing on a climbing expedition in the Himalayas.

A party of three Japanese, led by H. Kato, and their 29 Nepalese Sherpas have not been heard from for three weeks and no trace of them has been found in an intensive search, according to word received here today.

The expedition was attempting to conquer 23,340-ft. Mt. Gauri Sankar in the Nepal Himalayas, described by experts as unclimbable from the Nepal side. Gauri Sankar is situated about 35 miles west of the 29,022-ft. king of mountains, Everest.

Underpaid, Nelson Says to Teachers

Governor Addresses 15,000 at Milwaukee Confab, Raps Stress On Construction of New Buildings

Milwaukee — Gov. Nelson today told 15,000 teachers at a Milwaukee conference that their role probably is the most important in the world, but in spite of this they are underpaid.

The chief executive told about 15,000 teachers attending the Wisconsin Education association convention that there is not enough spending for teachers' salaries and good books and there is too much emphasis on construction of new school buildings.

Financing of education in Wisconsin and elsewhere presents a serious and mounting crisis, Nelson said. Increasing costs will have to be met without placing a tremendous tax burden on the property owners who now are bearing the brunt of school costs, he added.

Increase Dues
The teachers at their first general session voted to raise their dues from the present fee of $5 to $7 a year. They also asked their officers to study the possibility of having the convention earlier in the year. This was brought up after the visitors came to Milwaukee in snow and sleet.

Also to be studied by the officers is a proposal to have two conventions elsewhere in the state instead of the one in Milwaukee. The delegates also voted to drop from future conventions the Saturday morning session which concludes the meeting and usually is poorly attended.

Henry W. Jones, Wausau, was named president-elect without opposition. Jones, 41, has been principal of the John Marshall Elementary school in Wausau for the past four years. All other officers were reelected. They included Howard C. Koepfen, Clinton, first vice president; Edith Luedke, West Allis, second vice president; Weir McQuoid, Phillips, third vice president; H. C. Weinlick, Madison, executive secretary; Lloyd R. Moseng, Racine, treasurer and Donald Field, La Crosse, District 3 delegate.

Ronald C. Jensen, Kenosha, defeated Ralph Lenz, Berlin, for the only contested post, that of District 4 delegate. All will take office in January.

Writer Speaks
Anthony Nutting, a New York writer, told the teachers that an economic federation of Europe and eventually all the western allies, is the only answer to the "real Soviet threat." He described this threat as "cutthroat competition" for the Africa and Asia markets by the Russians.

Louis H. Evans, Jr., associate general director of the board of national missions of the Presbyterian church called "a lack of love" the underlying cause of the modern world's problems.

English teachers attending a sectional meeting were told that the best teacher can not make pupils like a book they are not ready to like, nor can the poorest teacher entirely spoil a piece of literature if it has the content the pupils want.

G. Robert Carlsen of the University of Iowa, said that young people enjoy reading according to content, not style. They want stories that deal with their current interests and problems encountered in the process of growing up, he said.

Navy Scrapping 14 Jet Seaplanes
Washington — The navy is scrapping 14 Seamaster jet seaplanes built by the Martin company under a $441 million contract terminated last August.

A navy spokesman said usable parts and instruments will be removed before the hulks are scrapped. Martin built 16 of the 600-mile-an-hour Seamasters, envisioned as mine-layers and photo reconnaissance planes. Two were destroyed in crashes.

The program was scrapped in August in an effort to save $72 million in proposed expenditures for the planes and support equipment.

State Ends 1st Week of Fall Session

Proposal for Adjournment Gets No Public Support

Madison — There was talk in the Wisconsin legislature Thursday of another adjournment but the proposal received no public support and today the lawmakers completed the first week of the fall session with informal meetings.

The suggestion to go home and come back later to get the recommendations of a citizens tax revision committee appointed by Gov. Gaylord Nelson came from Sen. William Trinke (R-Lake Geneva). "I think we ought to adjourn now until we hear from that committee," Trinke said. "I'm certainly not going to vote for any tax bills until we get that report and I don't think the others will either."

The "any tax bills" referred to by Trinke are Nelson's stop-gap proposals of a withholding tax or boost in present income tax rates.

No Public Support
No one publicly supported Trinke, but some Republicans have been talking the same thing privately since the fall session opened Tuesday.

When the legislature recessed last July, after more than six months of duty, it agreed to come back in the fall to act on the budget for the second year of the biennium.

A report from the citizens committee on how to raise the money was anticipated but the group said it could not complete its job until spring.

Assembly action at the week's end involved vetoes. That house overruled Nelson's censure of a bill that would require the state to pay for maintenance of road detours that by-pass construction jobs.

Upheld was Nelson's veto of a measure that would have made it legal to kill bear out of season when animals damage crops.

Pope Blesses Cardinal's Body
Vatican City — Pope John XXIII today blessed the body of Federico Cardinal Tedeschini at funeral services in St. Peter's basilica.

The Italian cardinal, who died of cancer Monday at the age of 86, was archbishop of the great basilica and one of the Vatican's chief administrators.

The services were attended by 22 cardinals, high Italian government officials and members of the diplomatic corps to the Vatican. Pope John arrived in the black-draped basilica after the funeral mass and gave absolution to the cardinal's body, which was placed near the altar and surrounded with 100 candles. Burial was to be in the grotto of the basilica near the tomb of Pope Benedict IV, who was a close friend of Cardinal Tedeschini.

Airline Official Raps State Support For Local Airports

Arthur Mueller of North Central Line Says Program Is 'Erratic, Wasteful'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The chief officer of the state's only commercial airline Thursday flatly accused the state of supporting an "erratic and wasteful" local airport subsidy policy.

In a blistering speech before the legislature's finance committee Arthur Mueller of Wausau, chairman of North Central Airlines, complained that the program of the state aeronautics commission in encouraging the construction of too many local airports with state and federal money will ultimately destroy his line by making its services economically inefficient.

The result of local airport construction typically is a demand for scheduled airline service, he said, hinting that he already has more Wisconsin stops than he believes his firm can handle profitably.

Strong Opposition
Strong opposition was registered at a legislative hearing Thursday to Gov. Gaylord Nelson's plan to stabilize state support for airport development at some $500,000 annually.

Most criticism centered on proposed methods of raising funds, mainly from taxes on airplane fuel and registration fees, rather than on the level of support.

The joint finance committee hearing, which considered Nelson's second-year budget, also heard an attack on Aeronautics commission policies. William J. Lotzer of Milwaukee, representing a state airport operators' group, declared the proposed sliding scale of gasoline tax refunds would drive operators out of business. All of the tax on airplane fuel, six cents a gallon, is refunded now.

Mueller's blast came at a time when the legislature is worried about balancing the state budget, and might well be fatal to the aspiration of the state agency for an increase in its airport aid and airport planning funds.

Defend Program
Director T. K. Jordan and Chairman L. O. Simenstad sat in frowning silence during Mueller's testimony, although they had described and defended the state aviation program at length earlier in the hearing.

Mueller candidly related the airport promotion program to his interests as the chief executive of the state's only scheduled air flight carrier. He said his firm now serves 19 Wisconsin cities, with average hops between them of 56 miles, and with the average community served having about 61,000 people. If the state policy is continued, he complained, it may ultimately be required to serve 47 cities, with even shorter hops between. Such a result would be enormously burdensome for all taxpayers, and would also cancel out the advantage of air travel because of the inefficient stop schedule, he said.

Mueller claimed that 30 miles is a reasonable distance for an air passenger to travel to get to an airport with scheduled flying service.

He cited the Fox valley area as he told of his worries about a "hodge-podge" of airport development, but did not elaborate.

Mueller said also that he has no objection to local airports for local and unscheduled service, and predicted also that in the future his firm will provide helicopter service for shorter flights serving smaller Wisconsin communities.

The airlines chief had some support from other witnesses, including Congressman Gerald Flynn of Racine who strode into state capitol chambers unexpectedly to denounce the state agency for exploiting local pride and community rivalries in promoting local airport construction and to warn his former colleagues of the state legislature that the people are resentful and "wrought up about taxes for these things."

Sammy Davis, Jr. Plans to Marry White Dancer

Hollywood — "I love her very much and we want to get married. I don't want to hurt her family, any more than I would want them to hurt mine. I hope I can meet her folks and prove to them that I am not the goblin of our times or Miss Stuart an ogre."

With that explanation, Negro entertainer Sammy Davis, Jr., announced Thursday he plans to wed a 21-year-old white dancer, Joan Stuart of Toronto, despite her parents' objections.

Davis, 33, added: "I have never met Joan's parents, nor have they given me the opportunity to speak to them on the telephone."

The girl's mother, Mrs. John Stuart, said in Toronto: "Naturally we don't approve. I've known about it but I don't know about it. I don't know what's happened this time. She's only known him about 10 days."

Jose Laurel Dies at 68 In Manila

Manila — Jose P. Laurel, whose collaboration with the Japanese in World War II brought him denunciation as a traitor and praise as a patriot, died today.

The 68-year-old political veteran suffered a stroke yesterday while standing on a sidewalk in downtown Manila. He died in a hospital of a brain hemorrhage.

Laurel served as president of the puppet government set up by the Japanese in 1943 but insisted he collaborated with the enemy only to protect his people from the conquerors. After a postwar political comeback, he retired in 1957 after nearly half a century in public life.

Laurel was the son of wealthy parents and studied abroad at the Sorbonne, Oxford, the University of Madrid and the Yale university law school.

He moved up fast in Philippine politics during the days of American rule, serving as floor leader of the senate, supreme court justice and later acting chief justice. When war broke out in the Pacific, he was secretary of justice. The commonwealth government fled before the Japanese invaders and ordered Laurel to stay behind and deal with the occupation forces.

His dealings with the Japanese brought him the hatred of many of his people at the time, and he had a narrow escape from assassination. Filipino guerrillas ambushed him on a golf course and seriously wounded him with gunfire.

Laurel and his puppet government fled to Tokyo with the arrival of the American forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. He was returned to the Philippines under arrest on treason charges, then freed by the general amnesty proclaimed in 1946 after establishment of the Philippine republic.

They had no children. The song-and-dance man said the wedding is scheduled for around the first of the year in Canada. The couple plans to live here.

Davis met the dancer while he was in Montreal for a night club engagement and Miss Stuart was appearing in a local revue.

"We went to coffee shops mostly and just sat and talked," Joan said in Toronto. "We found we had lots in common."

The dancer said she and Davis "kind of hit it off right away."

Political Gold Found in California by Kennedy

Top Democratic Leaders Agree His Trip Was Great Success

BY HELMAN MORIN

Los Angeles — Sen. John F. Kennedy struck political gold in four days of prospecting in California. Top Democratic leaders, including Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, generally agree about that today.

But his very success sharpens the dilemma that now confronts the Massachusetts senator. Should he enter the winner-take-all California primary next June and go for its glittering 81 votes in the Democratic presidential nominating convention?

Question Pivots
The question pivots on another: Is he strong enough to beat Brown?

Some California Democrats say he is. Others are dubious. Kennedy himself said he would be "reluctant" to enter the primary. This, in spite of the compliments echoing here as Kennedy headed into Oregon today.

"He had a big success," said Brown. "I admire him very much."

But the governor said it has not caused him to reassess his own position. He says almost all the party leaders in the state want him to go to the convention as its "favorite son."

"A highly successful trip," said State Chairman William Munnell. "He made many, many friends in California."

Drew Big Crowds
Kennedy drew big crowds at almost every stop. They grew visibly warmer as he spoke. The receptions at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles and the University of Southern California were little short of spectacular.

At UCLA, 1,900 people filled every seat of the auditorium. Hundreds milled around outside. When he emerged, a student called out, "Come back again and speak to the 1,000 who couldn't get in."

X15 Blast May Delay Space Hop

Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. — America's effort to send a man to the edge of space may be delayed because of an explosion in the X15 rocket ship.

North American Aviation, manufacturer of the small craft, said further flights have been postponed until the cause of the blasts is determined.

Test pilot Scott Crossfield made an emergency landing Thursday after an explosion followed by fire in the dash-shaped craft's tail. The plane landed so hard its fuselage cracked near the cockpit. Crossfield was unharmed.

The blast occurred eight miles above the earth, shortly after the plane was dropped from a bomber.

North American believes it was caused by a fuel leak.

ernment fled to Tokyo with the arrival of the American forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. He was returned to the Philippines under arrest on treason charges, then freed by the general amnesty proclaimed in 1946 after establishment of the Philippine republic.

Charlie Continues Discussion of Epitaphs Cut on Grave Markers

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Epitaphs are often humorous — sometimes through ignorance, sometimes purposefully. Some are niggardly, some are kind, some unkind. Many are erroneous, many insulting to the memory of the deceased, and some, too, are vengeful.

Too often, long ago, the writing of the epitaph was left to the stone cutters who were often given to rude doggerel poetry and even a sense of humor. Some epitaphs, too, were composed and inscribed by ignorant friends and relatives who did not realize that their work would be the source of laughter for many years.

Illiterate

One such illiterate epitaph is at Sparta Diggings, Calif., It reads:

John Smith, Gold Digger

Who met worlrent death near this spot 18 hunderd and 40 to. He was shot by his own pissil. It was not one of the new kind but a old fashion brass barrel & of such is the kingdom of heaven.

Another whose misplaced modifier makes it an amusing epitaph instead of a tender one, is on a Virginia grave.

It reads:

Erected to the memory of John Phillips, accidentally Shot as a mark of affection by his brother.

Revengeful Ones

Relatives seeking vengeance for wrongs committed in life by the deceased have often made merry with epitaphs.
In Falkirk, England, is this epitaph:

At rest beneath this slab of stone
Lies stingy James A. Wyett.

He died one morning just at ten
And saved a dinner by it.

Another of the same variety, and perhaps composed by relatives disappointed by what he had left to them, is at Norfolk, Va., and reads thus:

Here lies John Racket
In his wooden jacket.
He kept neither horses nor mules.

He lived like a hog and died like a dog
And left all his money to fools.

No Sorrow Here

Occasionally one finds among epitaphs an epigram peeking through. At first glance this epitaph to a New Hampshire wife suggests sorrow. At second—well, consider it yourself:

Tears cannot restore her —therefore I weep.

At Action, England, another unhappily married fellow caused this to be scrolled on the tombstone of his wife:

I laid my wife beneath this stone — for her repose
And for my own.

In Keesville, N.Y., there is an epitaph which, though perhaps true, must be considered impious and less than respectful. It reads:

Here lies a man of good repute
Who wore a number 16 boot.
'Tis not recorded how he died,

But sure it is that open wide
The gates of heaven must have been
To let such monstrous feet within.

Hard-Pressed Poet

Hard-pressed he must have been who wrote these lines for the epitaph of Sally Lord, Skenateles, N.Y.:

Underneath this pile of stones

Sally Jones.

Her name was Lord, it was not Jones.

But Jones was used to rhyme with stones.

While we all have feet of clay it does not seem fair to me, nor decent, that the mother of an illegitimate child should be punished as is Miss Martha Gwynn of St. Albans.
Her cruel epitaph reads:

Sacred to the memory of Miss Martha Gwynn
Who was born so very pure within

She burst the outer shell of sin
And hatched herself a cherubim.

It is incredible that the epitaph of George Washington bears an advertisement, but it does. There at Mt. Vernon on a sarcophagus to "The Father of His Country" is the inscription (for which, shame on us!):

WASHINGTON

By the permission of
Lawrence Lewis
The Surviving executor of George Washington,
This sarcophagus
Was presented by John Struthers, of Philadelphia,
Marble Mason
A.D. 1837

Mankind's hope for immortality, no matter whether it is contained in lines of his epitaph or by his deeds in life.

Aldermen Get Copies Of Kalamazoo-Toledo Mall Tour Report

Copies of the Kalamazoo-Toledo shopping mall tour report have been furnished each city councilman upon request of the council's public safety committee.

Nine city officials and 13 members of the chamber of commerce toured the malls in the Michigan and Ohio cities Oct. 3.

The report outlines the findings on shopping malls and on parking and traffic problems in the two cities. It was prepared by a 6-man committee: City Atty. Jury, Director of Public Works Duszynski, Chamber President Gus A. Zuehlke, and chamber members Walter L. Rugland, Karl Baldwin and John Conway.

Safety committeemen have not discussed the report. When it was presented in committee the motion was to furnish copies to each alderman.

UW Professor Lauds Appleton's Schools

Dr. Fowlkes Calls Improvement Progress 'Extraordinary,' Cites City's Contributions

The Appleton school system has made "extraordinary progress" in the Wisconsin improvement program, the project's director told Appleton representatives in a meeting here Thursday noon.

Appleton is one of nine state communities cooperating with the University of Wisconsin in the program, supported by a $825,000 grant from the Ford foundation to experiment with modern educational methods. UW Prof. John Guy Fowlkes, program director, praised the Appleton district's tangible contributions and enthusiastic work in the project.

Harold Ries, member of the Appleton advisory committee, reported at the meeting of the cooperating communities that, "The language laboratory at senior high is one of the first in the state of Wisconsin. It received excellent coverage in the Post-Crescent recently.

"Currently we are conducting an experiment with the helping teacher, who helps each teacher of the ninth grade English department two hours every third day. At Roosevelt we have five student teachers from Lawrence college; hence we are directly involved with teacher education as a part of the program. An instructional secretary will be provided for a short experiment."

"The team teaching experiment is taking place in physical education classes," Ries reported. "Roland Winters and Orval Koepke are in charge of the project." He pointed out that plans for the second semester include using an overhead projector to improve technical drawing.

John Dewey Lectures Set

Lawrence Honors Philosopher on 100th Anniversary

Two special speeches — to commemorate the centennial of the birth of American philosopher John Dewey have been planned for the Lawrence college campus Nov. 11 and 12.

The actual centennial occurred Oct. 20; his death took place 10 years ago.

Coming to the Lawrence campus for the commemorative programs are Dr. Gail Kennedy of Amherst college, the importance of cooperation between Appleton and the university in the project. "It's heartening to see that top men are being put in this project," he said. He noted that, "The university is putting 14 professors and five associate professors to work on parts of the project, as well as four research assistants."

Prof. Fowlkes emphasized

Mass., philosophy department; and Dr. Philip H. Phenix, dean of Carleton college.

Social Control Talk

Kennedy's lecture, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, in the Worcester Art center is titled "Social Control: The Major Theme of Dewey's Philosophy." It is sponsored jointly by the Lawrence philosophy department and the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors, an organization which Dewey served as its first national president.

Dean Phenix's talk, at 11 a.m. Thursday in Memorial chapel, will deal with "John Dewey, Champion of Integrity." Both talks are open to the public without admission charge.

The two campus visitors also will address students in education, philosophy, religion and American history courses.

Dewey's Student

Prof. Kennedy was a student of Dewey's at Columbia university, from which institution he took a Ph D degree. His earlier work was done at the University of Minnesota. Since 1926 on the faculty at Amherst, he has edited the book "Education At Amherst" and written four books.

Dean Phenix was trained at Princeton, Union Theological seminary and Columbia, and is now serving his second period on the Carleton faculty. He has also taught at Columbia, the University of Wisconsin and in the summer of 1958 went to Dahrhan, Saudi Arabia to conduct courses for the Arabian American Oil company.

New Standards Set For Storage Space

Must Comply With Regulations to Obtain FHA-Insured Mortgage; 200 Cubic Feet Needed to Comply

BY ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

New standards by the Federal Housing Administration increase the amount of storage space which must be provided in every new house before it can be approved for an FHA-insured mortgage.

Under these regulations, every house must have at least 200 cubic feet for general storage purposes and 75 cubic feet of general storage space for each bedroom. This space must be provided in addition to closets in each bedroom, coat and linen closets and kitchen shelves for the storage of food, equipment and utensils.

The FHA states that at least 25 per cent of the required storage volume must be located inside the house. A minimum of 50 per cent also must be located where items used outdoors, such as lawn mowers, may be stored conveniently. This storage space must be accessible to the outdoors and it must not be necessary to cross any habitable room to reach it. The additional 25 per cent of storage space may be located either indoors or outdoors.

Various Ways

Builders or individuals planning on FHA mortgages must, of course, conform to the regulations. This is done in various ways, usually by the addition of a utility room or the construction of an exterior shed. But the requirements are met automatically when there is a basement with an outside exit. Besides being accessible, the basement with separate access to the outdoors provides low-cost floor space.

Dozens of storage ideas are being created to improve the basement's facilities. Among them are:

"Storage wall" partitions to separate different areas; the workshop from the recreation room, for instance. Taking the place of fixed partitions, they can be moved around as necessary. These partitions can be custom built, if necessary, to solve particular storage problems.

Storage Walls

"Seasonal storage walls" or cabinet-like compartments which can be placed near the basement entrance. In summer, a cabinet containing seasonal items is pushed into position for easy use. In winter, the cabinet and its contents are moved to an out-of-the-way section of the basement. Another cabinet, with winter equipment, replaces it.

"All-purpose walls," those with perforated hardboard surfaces to accommodate a variety of hooks that support shelves, tools, etc.

Cabinets formerly used upstairs but now discarded can be utilized downstairs for the laundry area. They can be used for soap powders, detergents and other necessary cleansing items.

Since the basement usually occupies almost as much floor space as the first floor, there is far more space than is necessary for storage purposes alone. This extra space is fine for a playroom, home workshop or desired hobby area.

Thermostat Key to Heat Control Unit

It's an Example Of Earliest Form Of Automation

This may surprise you, but you have one of the earliest examples of automation right in your own home.

It's the control system that automatically regulates the operations of your home heating or air conditioning system.

Engineers point out that a home temperature control system utilizes the same fundamental engineering principle that is the heart of highly-sophisticated and complex automation systems widely used in industry today.

It is known as the "feedback principle." In a home heating control system, here's how the principle works:

Sends Signal

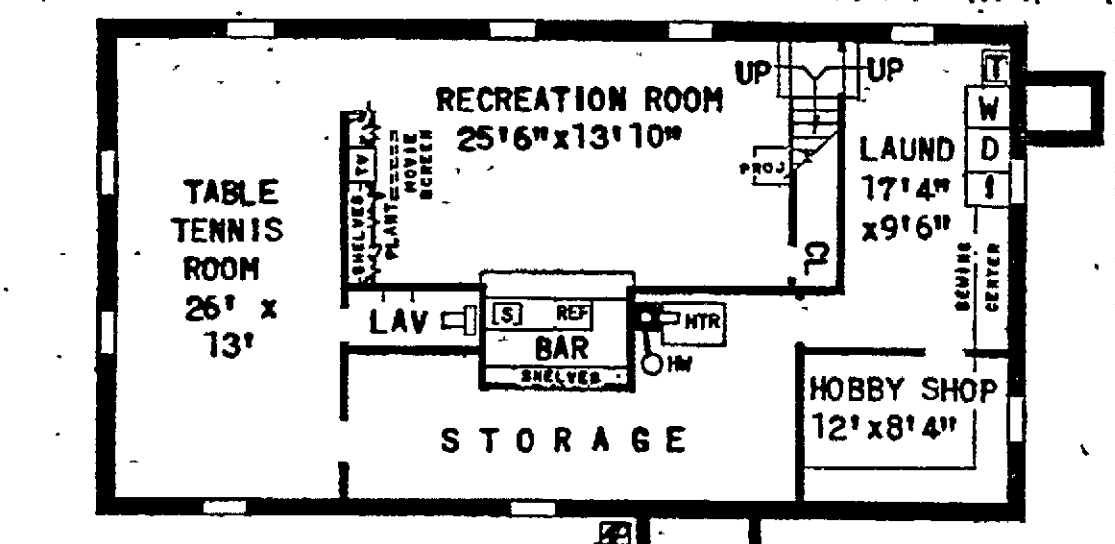

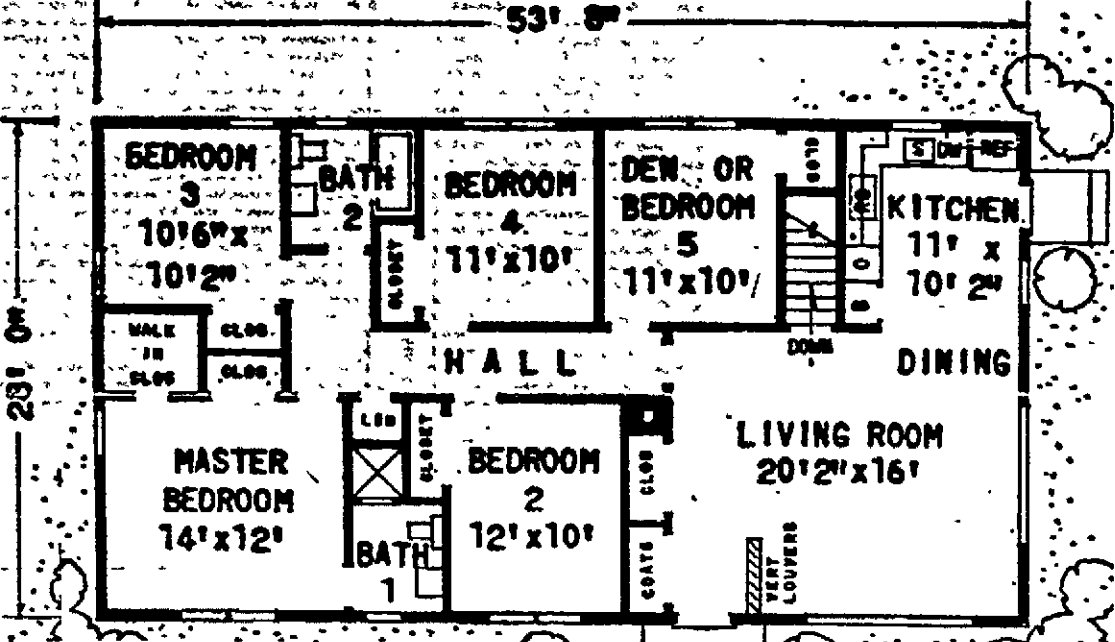

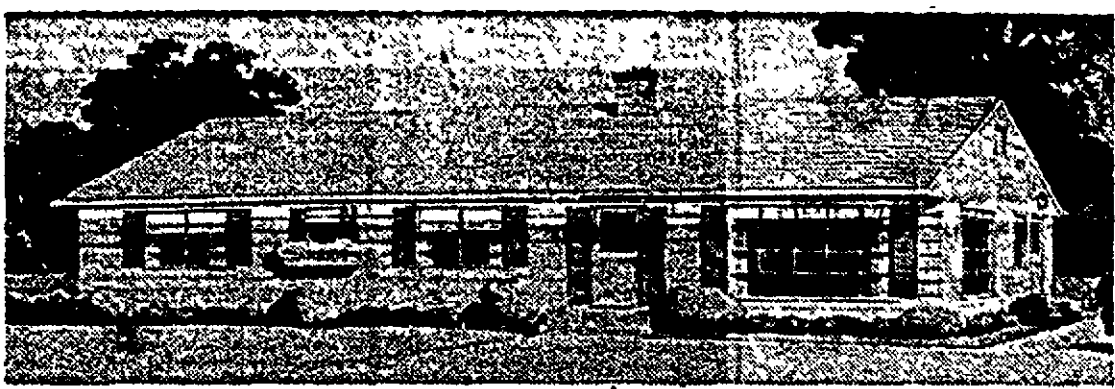

The thermostat first senses that a change of temperature is required (in order to keep the temperature at a preset point). Having sensed the need, the thermostat sends a signal to the other controls located on the burner, telling those controls to start the burner.

When the temperature in the room rises to the required level, this information is "fed back" to the thermostat, which then sends another signal to the controls on the burner to turn it off.

The experts explain that while the thermostat is the "brain" of the home automation system, the other controls in the basement are also so important and should be selected with care by the homeowner.

Reform Judaism Grows Rapidly Since War

New York—Reform Judaism has grown so rapidly since the war that Hebrew Union College—Jewish Institute of Religion, which trains its rabbis, has doubled its enrollment in that period and still is unable to meet the need, says President Dr. Nelson Glueck.

Five Bedrooms or Four bedrooms and a den: That's the selling point of this ranch unit. Despite its spaciousness on the inside (1,500 square feet on the main level), the house can be built on a moderate-sized lot. A full basement with recreation and hobby rooms adds to family fun. It is plan HA115K by Architect Derick B. Kipp, 117 W. 48th street, New York 36, N. Y.

Acoustical Tile Effective In Reducing Noises in Home

One of the best ways to improve the home is to make it quiet and restful. Acoustical materials, which can be installed in any room, afford an effective means of reducing noise.

Placed on the ceiling toward which most noise is reflected these materials which are soft, porous tiles (in home sizes, usually 12" x 12") can absorb up to 85 per cent of the noise that strikes them. A room treated with acoustical materials will thus have a noticeably quieter atmosphere.

A bonus value, in keeping with home improvement and modernization trends, is the strikingly attractive effect an acoustical ceiling will have on the appearance of a room.

The tiles are available in about 20 different surface designs. Some have colored plastic surfaces, others look like veined marble or stone and still others seem to change patterns when lighting angles in a room are altered.

The installation of an acoustical ceiling constitutes a minor remodeling job. Anyone a little handy with tools can make it a do-it-yourself project or an acoustical contractor can do the job in a day or so.

The main methods involve cementing directly to the ceiling surface and nailing or stapling to wood furrings. Explicit instructions are provided by acoustical materials dealers.

The use of draperies, soft, cushion furniture and resilient floor materials will also help absorb noise. Placing pads or casters under chair and table legs will eliminate scraping noises, and mounting refrigerators, washers and other such appliances on rubber or cork pads will absorb the noise caused by machine vibrations. Buffers of resilient material on doors will prevent slamming.

Footboards Lower

The footboards on beds tend to become lower, and in some cases even to disappear, as headboards go higher. This season you will find a variety of long chests for the foot of the bed, some with cedar compartments.

Lawrence Says

Van Doren
Not Required
To Tell TruthShowed Courage
By Ignoring the Fifth Amendment

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Poor Charles Van Doren, why didn't he take the Fifth amendment hero of the powerful cult in America which defends the use of the Fifth amendment. He would have had back of him the deans of many law schools and the resolutions of various "civil liberties" organizations which have declared indignantly that no teacher should lose his job just because he takes the Fifth amendment.

Mr. Van Doren isn't a communist, nor did he engage in any subversive activity. Yet he would today have more defenders, especially among some "intellectual" groups, if he had just refused to say anything about "rigged" television shows. He might have been applauded as a man who fights so-called "McCarthyism." This is the characterization often given to the tactics of congressional committees seeking to expose fraud and trickery on the part of individuals engaged in subversive activity.

For the last few years the outcry has been that a man who is hauled before a congressional committee and asked impertinent questions involving his life and character is being unjustly treated. Even the supreme court of the United States, in an opinion rendered by Chief Justice Warren, said in 1957 that congressional committees should not have the power to hurt the reputation of individuals "for exposure's sake." Here is what the opinion said in part:

"The mere summoning of a witness and compelling him to testify, against his will, about his beliefs, expressions or associations is a measure of governmental interference. When those forced revelations concern matters that are unorthodox, unpopular, or even hateful to the general public, the reaction in the life of the witness may be disastrous. This effect is even more harsh when it is past beliefs, expressions or associations that are disclosed and judged by current standards rather than those contemporary with the matters exposed. Nor does the witness alone suffer the consequences. Those who are identified by witnesses and thereby placed in the same glare of publicity are equally subject to public stigma, scorn and obloquy."

It will be argued Mr. Van Doren waited a long time before he came through with the truth, and then only when it was apparent he had no escape from the testimony of other witnesses. He didn't have to testify before the New York grand jury in the first place. He could have taken advantage of the immunity amendment in the New York state constitution, and later invoked the Fifth amendment before the congressional committee.

Many who have appeared before congressional committees and confessed their misdeeds in joining or working in the communist party are held up to scorn. Some of the ex-communists claim they can't get a job and are virtually "black-listed." They state one who reveals his own part in communist activity suffers far more than the man who takes the Fifth amendment.

Charles Van Doren in his TV appearances didn't violate any law or defraud the sponsor who put him on the show. He did violate a moral code. He misled the people in an entertainment for which the public paid no admission. He is suffering now and will suffer in the future more penalties than if he had violated many a law. Certainly there is no moral justification for what he did, but does unrelenting punishment by the public fit the "crime"?

What will society now say to Charles Van Doren? Will it credit him with courage for exposing every single detail of a harrowing experience with his conscience, or will it say he is a confirmed liar and refuse to take him back?

'Live It Up'
At Home

Today the home is a community center on the family level, according to a housing expert.

"Time was when home was a place to eat, sleep and be merry. But, today people are living it up at home more than ever before."

A typical homeowner has up to 75 hours a week, exclusive of sleeping time, to spend at home.

A factory worker with a 35-hour work week living within 30 minutes of the shop has over 3 days a week to keep himself occupied at home.

"This added leisure time creates demand for more activity and greater utilization of floor space. Often it means providing Dad with a study, a music corner or soda bar in the basement for the youngsters, a sewing room for mom, a patio and barbecue for the entire family."

The rising standard of living has provided the homeowner with the money as well as the time. Even where there isn't the ready cash, FHA and other sources stand ready to make the necessary funds available.

This added time has given Dad more incentive to develop skills that can be useful around the house. Developments in building materials and techniques make it practical for him to undertake extensive home improvement projects.

Fast Steel Strike
End Imperative,
Proxmire Says

Washington — Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said Thursday a quick ending of the steel strike is imperative but the country cannot afford a settlement that would be inflationary.

On a brief trip to Washington after several weeks in Wisconsin, the senator said the steel strike is the No. 1 concern of the people of his state. Proxmire said President Eisenhower should appoint a fact-finding board immediately to explore fully both management and labor sides of the 114-day strike and come out with non-compulsory recommendations for settlement.

"Such a recommendation should be fair to both sides but it should be non-inflationary," Proxmire said. "It would be a grave mistake if out of this situation there came a steel price increase."

give is human, too. It is important to remember that Charles Van Doren scorned the use of the Fifth amendment and took his medicine like a man. How helpful to America it would be if many of our hidden communists now working against their own country would confess their sins and help break down the infiltration apparatus of a hostile government—something for more important than what happens on the stage of make-believe in the entertainment world! Your Money's Worth

Social Security
Changes Beneficial

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Right now there are thousands of Americans in agonizing, desperate need in this country who legally could be getting incomes running to more than $250 a month but who aren't getting those incomes because they aren't aware they are entitled to them.

This group includes disabled workers over 50 years of age who don't know that an amendment to the social security law last year greatly eased the work requirements for their eligibility.

It includes dependents of disabled workers who don't know that under the 1938 law they are eligible for benefits for the first time.

Dependent Parents includes dependent parents of deceased workers who don't know that they now can draw benefits even if the deceased worker's widow or child has been drawing benefits for years.

It includes disabled children of a retired or deceased worker who don't know that they can draw benefits at any age if their disability began before the age of 18.

It includes disabled children whose applications for benefits were turned down before the law was last amended and who don't know that if they apply again, their claims may be allowed and they may collect a big chunk of benefits retroactive to November, 1958.

Few Applicants "The number forfeiting benefits today could be tremendous, for we estimate 400,000 were made eligible under the 1958 amendments and we know the number of applicants hasn't been anywhere near that," said a spokesman for the New York social security office yesterday.

"It's terribly important to let these needy people know the benefits to which they're entitled. Every month that they wait they lose money because as of September, payments are retroactive for no more than 12 months."

As an indication of what this could mean, disability benefits are the same as benefits for retirement and can run to $119 a month for an individual, $254.10 a month for a family.

Old-Fashioned Bed Can be Turned Into Appealing Unit of Furniture

BY VIVIAN BROWN

If you're not satisfied with that old-fashioned bed, turn it into a new-fashioned one.

You can do it either with an outmoded bedstead that has been relegated to attic or barn, or with the bed you now use. Headboards can be perkied up with a variety of materials—leather, plastic, paint, wallpaper, felt and with odd motifs to be found in furniture stores.

One can even purchase a bed conversion kit that helps convert an old bedstead into a new style bed. The kit is particularly useful where there is a good headboard but missing side rails.

The conversion kit contains a sturdy steel frame support for spring and mattress with adjustable plates that attach to almost any headboard dimension. It contains a choice of casters—plastic, nylon glides or rug rollers. The adjustable frame is a new idea based on the Harvard bed frame used by people who don't want either headboard or footboard but want to keep spring and mattress as a bed. They place them on the frame.

Expandable Frame The new expandable frame can be used on a twin or full size bed. It can be used the entire width of the frame.

An old four-poster could be painted all white with a yellow headboard—charming daffodil effect against a pale green wall. A young girl might prefer a pink-and-white scheme against a French blue wall.

An old-fashioned maple bed may be given an Early American flair by the addition of a variety store eagle, either metal or wood, and a pair of finials. Painted barn red it would look handsome against white walls with a quilted bedspread in blue, barn red and other patchwork quilt colors.

Many headboards that are evenly balanced without curlicues take to the slipcover idea, and that makes for fun and seasonal change. In winter, felt could be used as a headboard and footboard cover, tightened with a draw string, hooked or snapped. In spring, it could take on a more colorful motif. Denim and plaid corduroy are two washable slipcovers, ideal for a small boy's room.

Wallpaper Prints Any number of handsome wallpaper prints lend themselves to headboards and footboards. Plaid and striped patterns are attractive in small girls' rooms.

Old-fashioned headboards may be pared down if you are handy with the plane. If those old styles have depressed oval panels as so many did 25 years ago, the area could be upholstered with felt—red, green, vibrant blue, and attached with large brass nail heads. The surrounding headboard area could be painted in a darker or contrasting hue.

And don't forget how interesting an old bed can look given a coat of paint with a stripe of a darker hue bordering the headboard and footboard.

Why Not a Real Fox Valley Airport?

A recent issue of the Post-Crescent contained two stories which, when read together, present a disturbing picture:

1. The Outagamie county board was presented with a "master plan" for the county airport at Appleton calling for the expenditure of $1 million to develop the port over the next several years. (A few days later a North Central Airlines official told the board this expenditure would merely transform the port into "a good DC-3 airport.")

2. The Winnebago county board authorized the expenditure of $600,000 on improvements at the Winnebago port at Oshkosh. (One supervisor commented, "We've lost all reasoning. We might as well go all out.")

Another asked if the Winnebago port is to become "another Bong." Here we have two adjacent counties planning to spend $1.6 million over the next two or three years in improving their separate and competing airports which are located 22 air miles from one another. This despite the fact that over three-quarters of Outagamie county's population is concentrated along its southern border, and that more than 80 per cent of Winnebago county's population lives in the northeast one-third of the county. In other words, there obviously is developing an urban area stretching from Kaukauna through Oshkosh, generally following the line of Highway 41, which has an urban population approaching 200,000, and for which we are developing two separate airports for commercial airline service. The only other urban areas we know of that feel it necessary to maintain two such airports are New York and Chicago — and we are hardly in that class yet!

We think it is time that the two counties take a long, hard look at the kind of an airport situation they are developing here, and consider whether it is really too late to do what it is quite apparent we should have done in the first place — build a bi-county airport between Oshkosh and the Fox Cities. We are well aware of the obstacles that would face us in pursuing such a course, especially the problem of abandoning the two airports in which these counties already have made substantial investments. Yet we cannot help wondering whether, 40 years from now, those investments will seem so important as compared to the opportunity that is ours if we have courage enough to grasp it.

The $1.6 million which the two counties are now proposing to spend — plus whatever can be salvaged from the present ports — would go a long way toward paying for a bi-county port. (It has been privately estimated that Outagamie eventually could salvage a net of $1.6 million from its port by selling off the land in residential lots.) Should we not consider how much more these dollars would buy us in a combined port?

Such an airport would be no farther than 10 miles from either Appleton or Oshkosh, and even closer to Neenah-Menasha. It is true that people in Kaukauna and the tri-villages would have a few more miles to travel, yet they would be connected with the airport by a modern 4-lane divided highway — something the people in many metropolitan centers would give their eyeteeth for! The airline flights now serving the two airports would, of course, be concentrated at the bi-county airport, which would give us far better service than we can ever expect at either of the separate airports. Even more important, this airport would have a population "draw" of almost 200,000 people within a 10 to 15-mile radius, as compared to a similar "draw" for the Green Bay airport of certainly no more than 125,000. Thus it could logically be expected that some day we would have the best service of any place in Wisconsin north of Milwaukee.

Tax-wise, this proposal certainly makes more sense than the way we are going about things now. The single airport would have the combined tax base of both counties; future improvements and any deficit in operating costs would thus fall more lightly on individual taxpayers. If, for example, the airport were eventually to cost $2 million, each county in effect would be getting a $2 million airport at only $1 million cost to itself.

It is obvious, of course, that it would be unfair to ask Winnebago county to go in on such a project on a strictly 50-50 basis from the start. Winnebago county has been far more progressive than Outagamie county in airport development, and its investment is considerably greater; to put it another way, Outagamie county would be making a bigger jump in improved facilities than Winnebago county by going into such a combined project. It should not be difficult, however, to work out a formula under which Winnebago county would be reimbursed for this difference. It is only fair that Outagamie county should pay a somewhat larger share of the original investment.

It may be that this idea actually is not feasible economically; we do not pretend to be experts on airport economics or on any other phase of this problem. This is why we have pushed so vigorously for the private survey of our airport needs that has been proposed by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and the citizens' committee; certainly the possibility of a combined Winnebago-Outagamie county airport would be studied in such a survey, and we could get some real information on whether it has any merit or not. The Outagamie board took an important step in the right direction this week when it appropriated $7,000 for such a survey; we hope its airport committee now gets down to work and orders the survey started as soon as possible.

It seems to us that this thriving, bustling, growing Fox Valley community is standing on the threshold of a growth and prosperity that was undreamed of only a few years ago. But with air transportation taking on more importance every year it is vital that we develop an airport program that makes the most sense from the viewpoints of the public, the taxpayers, air passengers and the governments involved. Certainly before pouring more money into our present facilities we should stop, look and listen to all the ideas and possibilities. And certainly, we should not be content with less than the very best.

Broadly Educated Citizenry Answer to 'Whither Education?'

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In Biblical times a "scapegoat" was selected by the high priests for the expiation of the sins of the people. These sins were symbolically transferred to a goat which was later allowed to escape. As time went on a human being served the same purpose with his later banishment into the desert to die. History records, as the ultimate example of "scapegoatism," the crucifixion of Christ. Thus the "laying of blame" is centuries old.

Today our educational systems are tossing about charges and countercharges. There are those who say that parochial and private schools are undemocratic. On the other hand, critics of the public schools say they are anti-religious and floundering without purpose or direction. And when the first Sputnik soared aloft panic soared with it. Not only did the schools criticize each other, but the citizenry also joined in the act — after having shuffled off responsibility for many years and passing on to the schools extra burdens that almost bordered on "welfare Statism." Thus the "whole child" concept took on a new meaning. But now, they chorus, "We do not have enough science!" "Let's get back to the 3 R's!" "Lengthen the school day and year!" "Merit pay for teachers!" "Increase the number of periods!" "Higher degrees!" and ad infinitum.

Curiously enough the report of the college presidents in listing the nation's top 41 schools does not list efficiency in science as a major problem, though some of the nation's top scientists, particularly Adm. Rickover, took our schools to task. The college report lists "communications" as the most glaring weakness in preparation for college. This is not without foundation since understanding of the world about us depends on our ability to understand others and to express ourselves.

Whatever the schools are today is somewhat dependent on these very same colleges whose ideas we, as teachers, had to accept. Their often padded curricula and sacrosanct ideas were considered beyond reproach and not subject to questioning minds. We heard the "gospel truth" and our grades depended on it. And when we went out into the wide world we found, "taint so!" Small wonder that primary and secondary school educators had to embark on experiments of their own!

Other professions had similar problems. The four or five year program had to include the History of this, Philosophy of this and the Psychology of that, then a duplication of this same subject matter under other titles. In many instances, our now "well rounded personalities" became a dumping ground for miscellaneous and sometimes useless information. Thus we graduated with a smattering of what we went there to learn — our major subject. Now it is recommended that we earn a master's degree or a doctorate in more of the same.

Our secondary schools have become just as cluttered. Now we have stamp sales, collections, milk distribution and other extracurricular activities too numerous to mention. Supervised studies became the vogue. Study halls were ruled out and the five and six period day came in. Research reports showed art and music in many schools "flying out the window." These subjects are no longer "scientific." And yet eloquent testimony for these comes from Angelo Patri, Sokolsky and Sam Levenson. Arts need freedom to thrive. You have only to witness the defections of Russian writers, artists and musicians who had to be disciplined for the "good of the state." Too bad! They did not parrot the party line.

Today there is need for a balance in education that is methodical rather than hysterical. Appealing entirely

Plan GOP German Newspaper

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Post-Crescent for the week of Nov. 6, 1880.

Flushed with their Republican congressional victory in this district, the "boss" manager publicly stated next day after election they had formed a pool of $3,000 to start a German Republican newspaper in this city to "buck" the Volksfreund and that they would import an editor to run it.

That's right, whoop it up, boys; it will be a good investment for money they don't know what to do with, and it won't take long to sink $3,000 and several others on top of it in a contest of supremacy with Mr. Meyer, who is "well fixed" enough to discount them and laugh at efforts to run him out.

We haven't the slightest idea that Editor Meyer will be scared from the even tenor of his ways by any election excitement threats. If he does we will be greatly mistaken.

25 YEARS AGO

Appleton was to be host to the semi-annual meeting of the state cabinet of Gideons, Christian Commercial Travelers of America, Dec. 1 and 2.

The initiatory degree was conferred on Gerald Libman, Russell Gresens and William Fleck at a meeting of John F. Rose chapter, Order of De Molay. About 25 Royal Arch Masons were guests.

Dr. Charles Briggs, superintendent of the Appleton district of the Methodist church, conducted three quarterly meetings in the district. He presided at meetings at Plover, Buena Vista and Stevens Point.

Carl Christensen and Mrs. Mary Gallagher, Neenah artists, were to exhibit paintings at the fourth show of Fox river valley artists to open in the Oshkosh public museum Sunday.

Mrs. Graichen Enters Race for Congress

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Political pot-pourri:

Mrs. Betty Graichen, formerly of Coloma, and immediate past Democratic national committeewoman for Wisconsin, has turned up in Rockford as a candidate for the Democratic congressional nomination in the northern Illinois district.

She will run, with CIO support, for the party nomination in a district which has been substantially Republican and has been represented in recent years by the widely known Rep. Leo Allen, who is retiring.

Sen. Henry Maier of Milwaukee, the Democratic floorleader in the state senate who has a keen eye for publicity and publicity techniques, will be the more wary on the subject this fall as he prepares his campaign for mayor of Milwaukee in the spring.

REPORT COMES TRUE

Six months ago this space carried a report, from highest authority in Milwaukee, that Mayor Zeidler would not run for reelection. The report was discounted then by those who thought that the mayor was paying hard to get and that his strategy was intended to encourage a "draft" movement. Zeidler would like to get a job teaching, if he had his own way, although he lacks the academic qualifications that are so heavily emphasized by education administrators nowadays.

Some of the building contractors of Wisconsin who are doing business with the state are complaining about the state's slow payment practices.

As a trade association executive recently put it after an inquiry, the contractors' claims must now pass over eight desk tops, but state officials promise to try to reduce it to three.

There is an irony in the fact that the Wisconsin vocational schools that are usually regarded enviously by other public services for their generous financing are now putting on the pressure, with reasonable chances for success, for additional state appropriations that will have the effect of compounding the legislature's critical financial dilemma. Gov. Nelson has given indirect blessing for the demand for state aids that has been ignored for the last decade or more.

A new law gives every lawyer in the state a chance to get a permanent commission as a notary public for a fee of five dollars.

Principal committees at the Democratic state convention next week will be in the hands of party regulars, including members of the state legislature. Evidently there is no desire to risk any declarations that might be embarrassing to the record of the new state administration or its legislative leadership.

CONVALESCING

Thomas E. Coleman, the powerful GOP state leader of a decade and a half ago, has lost none of his courageous spirit. Six days after a major surgical operation at Chicago, he left his bed, got into his car and drove it home to Madison.

Rudolph M. (Rudy) Schlachbach, for many years one of the capital's best liked personalities, is preparing to retire to his home in LaCrosse. The former state senator who has served recently as a member of the state board of tax appeals has lost his seat there to Jerome Reinke of Kewaunee, recently nominated by Gov. Nelson and likely to be confirmed without difficulty.

Gov. Nelson has made it plain that he wants a showdown on his bill to control billboard advertising along state highways (as distinguished from interstate highways already covered in another act) but the diagnosis of the situation is not favorable. The forces allied to defeat the measure are many, resolute and formidable.

The New Laws on Marriage and Divorce

Wisconsin laws relating to marriage and divorce have been tightened and generally improved under the new recodification bill signed by Gov. Nelson. In the future a girl wishing to marry in Wisconsin must be 16 years old and then must have the consent of her parents. Marriages of girls 16 to boys ranging in age from 18 to 21 will be void in the future unless the parents have consented to the union.

In such cases parents may sue for an annulment. Thirty days of residence in the county where the marriage license is applied for will be required under the new law. Marriages by justices of the peace and court commissioners have been eliminated.

It will be more difficult to obtain a divorce in Wisconsin under the new code. A 60-day "cooling off" period is required between service of a summons in a divorce action and the service of a complaint. Salaried court commissioners instead of divorce counsel, paid on a fee basis, will have the responsibility of trying to reconcile the parties in divorce actions. The family court commissioners will be required to investigate all divorce actions, not just the non-contested ones as was provided under the old law.

Divorces have been granted in the past solely on the ground that the spouse had been sentenced to prison for three years or more. In the future the spouse must be actually committed to prison. Thus where the state is confident that the convicted person will be able to rehabilitate himself, it is required that the spouse also show some confidence in him.

Persons who do not contest divorce actions will be required to appear in court so the judge may remind them of their obligations under the divorce settlement.

The code also tightens the provisions applying to remarriages in Wisconsin. In the future a previously married person seeking to marry again will be required to state the circumstances and the dates of prior marriages and the obligations resulting from them. A person who is obligated for a child's support will be required to show that he is meeting such obligations and will be able to continue to do so. If the court is not convinced of his responsibility, it may after a hearing deny his application for a license to marry.

Gov. Nelson says the new law will abolish breach of promise suits, tighten the law on child support and increase the punishment for failure to support. In addition, he says, the doctrine of refusing legal separations to persons charged with a part of the guilt is abolished except where adultery is alleged. The law is tightened with respect to contests for the custody of children and the court in the future must consider religious objections to divorce in determining divorce judgments.

The court is permitted to grant divorces or legal separations regardless of the charge in the complaint for "whatever the court finds would be in the best interests of the party or children of the marriage."

Most of the provisions in the new codification appear to offer reasonable safeguards before marriage and also appear to be pointed at preserving the marriage if possible after it has been consummated. None of the changes made are drastic or startling. They appear to be based on the long experience of judges and divorce counsel and thus hold much promise for the future.

Screens Make Poker-Face Bridge Game

From The St. Louis Post Dispatch

A new device introduced experimentally on bridge tables in the New York area may bring automation to the game. Players use a screen stretched diagonally across the table and high enough so no player may see his partner's face or hands. Bids are written on a printed form. Thus voice and mannerisms which, intentionally or unintentionally, give information to an observant partner are eliminated. Undoubtedly this new device is a fine thing for serious team matches. And it absolutely prevents the game from becoming secondary to the conversation. They may mean that the poker face has been brought to the bridge table, and that conviviality has been eliminated during the play, but the way is still clear for an old-fashioned kick in the shins when a partner trumps his partner's ace.

Big 10's Top Game of 1959 Pits 'Cats Against Badgers

NU Has Its 1st Sell-Out In 10 Years

By JOE MOOSHL
Evanston, Ill. — Northwestern's ability to score quickly and unexpectedly will be pitted against Wisconsin's size and power Saturday in the Big Ten football game of the year.

"We need speed to score and speed to stop them," said Wildcat Coach Ara Parseghian earlier in the week.

Wisconsin Coach Milt Bruhn's rebuttal was, "We'll

Madison — Wisconsin's football team was forced indoors by wet snow on a sodden practice field Thursday as the Badgers staged a final workout for Saturday's important Big Ten game at Northwestern.

Coach Milt Bruhn drilled the first and second units on defenses against the Wildcats' aerial game and worked on formations to contain fullback Mike Stock.

have to sharpen up our running attack and improve our pass defense if we expect to win."

Game Is Sell-Out

Undeclared Northwestern has somewhat of an edge since the game will be played in Evanston before a capacity crowd of 54,000—the first sell-out at Dwyer stadium in 10 years.

Yet, there is one factor that weighs in favor of once-beaten Wisconsin. The Badgers, who lost to Purdue, 21-0, must win or drop out of contention. No team with two defeats has ever won or shared a Big Ten title.

"Wisconsin is big and rugged," says Parseghian. "They'll outweigh us 14 pounds per man. We'll have to stop their power and their quarterback Dale Hackbart."

"They might not be as fast as we are," continued Parseghian, "but what speed they have is in Hackbart, and he's the central figure. If we can keep them from controlling the ball and wearing down our defense, we'll have a great chance."

Few Sustained Drives
"But if they can get that ball and control it, we're in trouble," added the young Wildcat coach.

Seldom has a team so successful as Northwestern been unable to put together consistent sustained drives. The Wildcats seem to flounder around and, boom! somebody is scoring on a long gainer.

Runs, punt returns and passes ranging up to 85 yards have been turned into touchdowns.

What's more, Northwestern is going to have to continue scoring on the long gainers because Wisconsin boasts one of the nation's sturdiest lines.

McHan Throws Better After Getting
Special Treatments; Taylor Runs Well

By ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — The Packers offense—limited to 30 points in the last three games—was tested on something strange today, a dry field!

It was the third different practice area in three days. Heavy snow and rain forced the Bays inside the Arena Wednesday. New ice on the Arena cement forced the Packers onto their water-covered practice field on Oneida street Thursday.

Today, the tarpaulin was peeled off the City stadium floor and, behold, the grass was green and the turf was dry and firm.

Big Objective
Packer Coach Vince Lombardi's big objective this week is to soup up the club's offense, which has produced three field goals and three touchdowns in the last three games. The three TDs came at the expense of the Colts. Two field goals were booted at the Rams, one at the Giants.

Offense against the Bears (in Chicago Sunday) is never easy and it's noteworthy that the Bruins have allowed the second fewest number of points, 120, in the Western division. The 49ers, who lost their only game to Green Bay, gave up only 72.

The Packers' chances of coming up with an offensive explosion Sunday depends considerably on the shoulder condition of Lamar McHan, the quarterback who was handicapped vs. the Giants last Sunday.

Outweighed Bisons Rely On Speed

Milwaukee — Marquette's rugged but slow football Warriors attempt to snap an 11-game losing streak Saturday when they entertain upset-minded North Dakota State at Marquette stadium.

Marquette, winner of only two of 36 games in the last four seasons and loser of all seven starts this fall, rules better than a 2-touchdown favorite to give Coach "Liz" Blackburn his first triumph since returning to the school.

However, North Dakota state is hopeful of pulling off a big surprise with its unbalanced T-formation attack and winding up its best season since 1946. The Bisons arrive with a 4-3-1 record.

Relies on Speed
Marquette will depend on size, power and the passing of Pete Hall to offset one of the better running attacks in the North Central conference. The Warriors outweigh the Bisons by an average of 22 pounds per man in the line.

With only three starters up front weighing more than 200, North Dakota State will rely on speed to shake loose half-back Gary Ahlgren and full-back Curt Quenette. Quarterback Ross Fortier, who has completed 35 of 72 passes this season, keeps opponents' defenses honest with his aerial ability.

Despite the Warriors' fine showing in losing a final-minute decision to Oklahoma State last week, Blackburn and his assistants aren't taking the North Dakota State game lightly.

Assistant Coach George Kelly wound up his scouting report by typing in capital letters and underlining: "DON'T UNDERESTIMATE THIS TEAM." That was enough for Blackburn and the rest of his staff.

Marquette is in good physical condition, although lacking reserve strength at fullback behind starter Frank Mestnik.

The kickoff for the third meeting between the two schools is set for 1:30 p.m. Marquette has rolled over North Dakota State in their two previous games, 66-0, in 1959 and 57-0 in 1950.

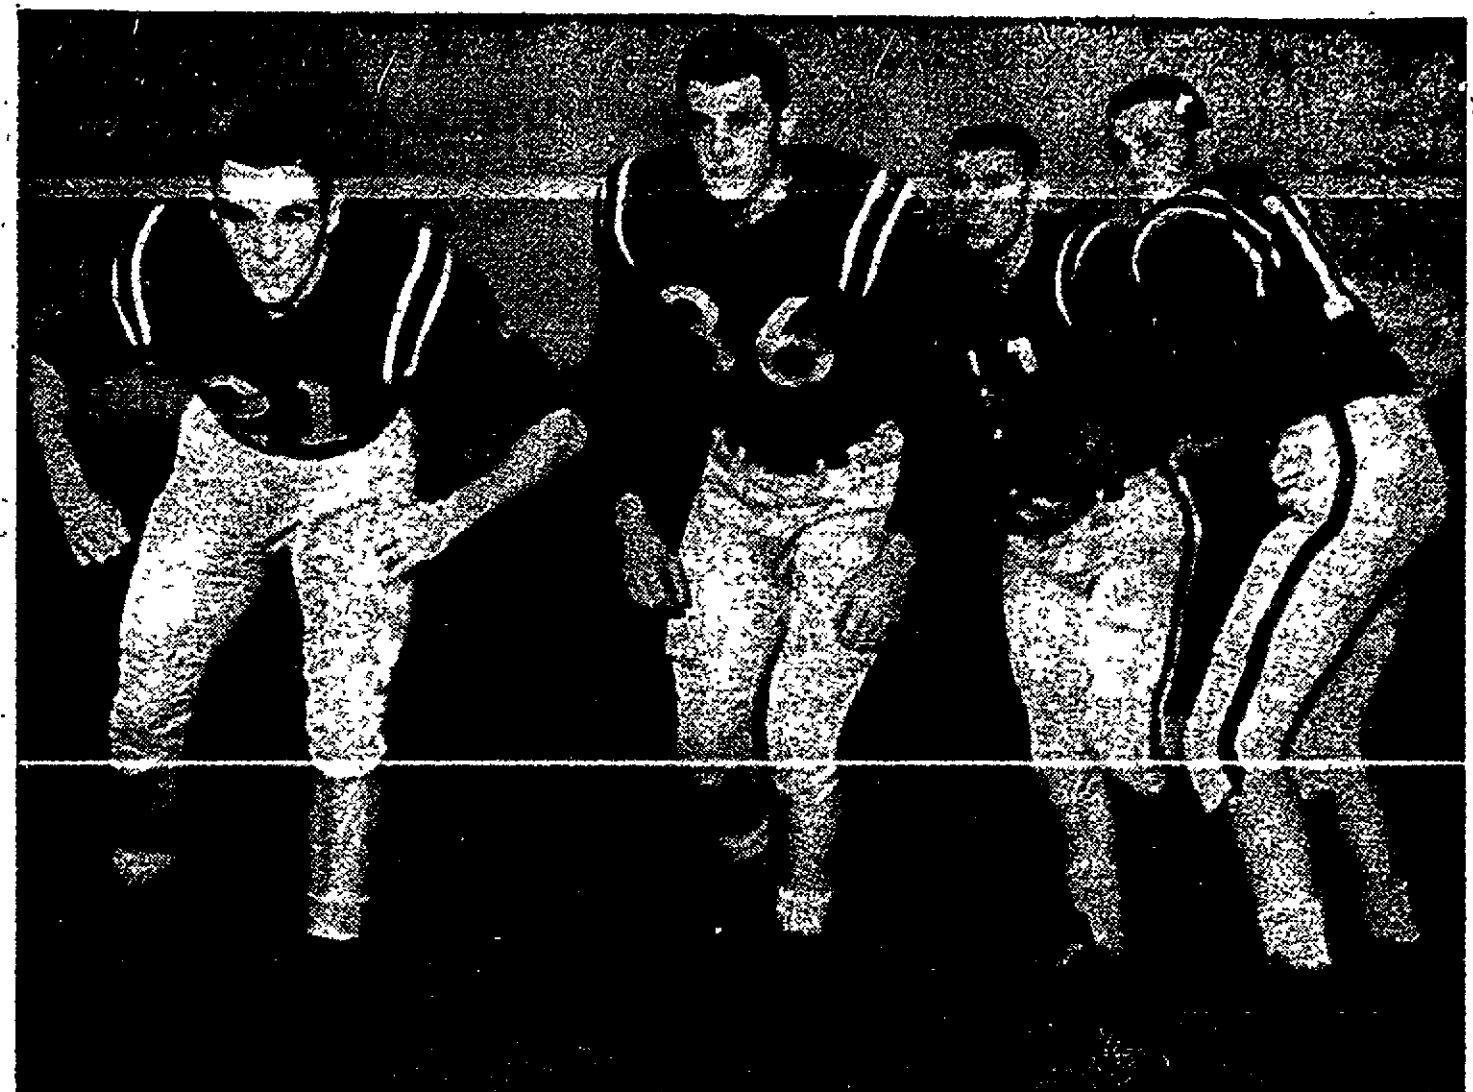

Hackworthy Won't Play Saturday

Co-captain Dave Hackworthy, linebacker and center will not be in the lineup Saturday when Lawrence college's football Vikings play St. Olaf in Northfield, Minn.

Senior Hackworthy, a 60-minute per-game player for three straight years, was admitted to Lawrence's student infirmary Thursday with mononucleosis. His center position will be manned by regular tackle Bob Smith with Pete Thomas moving to Smith's tackle spot.

Northfield had had about two inches of snow by noon Thursday but a school official said he "was sure the field will be cleared" by game time Saturday.

Terrors' Title Hopes Put to Final Tests

Bobcats Have 1st Brother Combination Sign Ken Stenlund; Two Players Will Live in Appleton

Green Bay—The Green Bay Bobcats, who return to practice tonight after a 1-week layoff, today had their first brother combination in their 2-year history.

It developed with the signing Thursday of Ken Stenlund, former Michigan Tech forward from Rouyn, Quebec, Canada.

Ken is the brother of Ron Stenlund, another Michigan Tech product, who joined the Bobcats earlier in the season and won a regular berth on the team's front line. Both Stenlunds will live in Appleton.

The 22-year-old Ken, two years younger than his brother, played two varsity seasons at Tech, where he won all-tournament honors in the annual Rensselaer Poly Invitational meet at Troy, N.H. in 1957.

Junior Hockey
He started his ice career in junior hockey at Seaford, Ontario, where he won scoring honors. Ken, who scored six goals in one game while with Seaford, subsequently played two years of junior A hockey at Hamilton, Ont., before matriculating at Michigan Tech.

The Bobcats, without ice since last Friday because of other commitments for Green Bay's Brown County arena, now will practice daily until their Central hockey league opener against the Minneapolis Millers here next Friday night, Nov. 13.

Player-coach Johnny Mayasich said, "We'll work hard through Wednesday night because I think conditioning will have a lot to do with the success of all league teams, particularly in these early series. We'll taper off Thursday with a light practice."

Armed with almost as many objectives as plays, the Appleton High school football team visits the frigid shores of Lake Michigan Saturday afternoon for a season-ending battle with the Manitowoc Shipbuilders.

These are the major goals the Terrors will pursue on the Washington Municipal field, starting at 1:30 p.m.:

1. The school's third football crown in four years.

2. A 5-game winning streak against Manty—longest in the last 25 years of feverish rivalry.

3. The first Fox River Valley conference total offense-total defense laurels in AHS history.

4. A tie for the second-best coaching record in the 17-year season career of Ade Dillon.

A victory for the favored Terrors is only one of the two pieces that must fall in place if AHS is to be cut in on titular glory.

The other major contribution would have to be made by Green Bay East, which will be a rank underdog against crosstown West in perhaps the FRVC's bitter rivalry. The Red Devils must either win or tie to benefit the Terror cause.

On the surface, East's chances are mighty slim. Yet, if West has one of its lesser days (as it had in a tie with Oshkosh, a 7-6 win over Central and a 7-6 win over Manitowoc).

Tad Pinkerton Tries to Regain Harrier Title

Lawrence Competes
In MC Meet at Chicago Saturday

Lawrence's Tad Pinkerton will be a contender for individual honors in Saturday's Midwest conference cross country meet at Chicago's Washington park.

Pinkerton finished fifth last year after winning the title as a sophomore in 1957.

Undeclared Carleton is the team favorite with the Knights' stiffest competition expected to come from St. Olaf, Cornell, Grinnell and Lawrence.

A pulled tendon in his foot will keep Lawrence's Jim Jordan out of action while "Chuck" Collins is also operating below par. Collins missed a couple practices this week due to an ulcerated wisdom tooth.

Besides Collins and Pinkerton, other Lawrentians running Saturday will include: Ron Traver, Ron Simon, Al Bond, Bill Stout and Gordon Becker. Last year, Simon finished sixth and Collins thirty-third.

Homers Latimer of Cornell and Dave Wee of St. Olaf are expected to battle Pinkerton for the individual title. Wee was second and Latimer was third in 1958.

Lawrence, which finished third (after Grinnell and Cornell) last year, left for Chicago this morning. The Vikings—MC champions two years ago—have won four of six dual meets and Pinkerton is undefeated.

NFL, New Pro League Reportedly Reject Each Other's Overtures

Dallas — The National Football League, through its expansion chairman, George Halas, has made overtures toward the new American Football league, according to the Lamar Hunt, founder of the AFL.

The AFL through Hunt has made overtures toward the National Football league, according to Halas.

In each instance, it appears the other side got turned down.

It all started Monday when Hunt, K. S. "Bud" Adams, owner of the AFL Houston franchise, and Bob Hawsum, owner of Denver, met with Halas in Chicago. Hunt said Halas made the suggestion that Dallas and Houston be added to the NFL next year and Minneapolis and Buffalo in 1961. That obviously would wipe out the AFL since only Los Angeles, New York and Denver would be left of the original membership.

In Line For Franchise
At Boston, Thursday night, it was announced by Harry Wismer, chairman of the AFL Expansion committee, that that city was in line to receive the eighth franchise. So Boston would also be among those out of the AFL should the expansion chairman, George Halas, have made overtures toward the new American Football league, according to the Lamar Hunt, founder of the AFL.

Terrors Invade Manty for Season's Finale

The Ships were by 9-0 in 1957, 32-7 in 1958 and 13-2 in '55. This will be the third time in four years that Terror title hopes have been at stake in the Manitowoc game.

Lead By 249 Yards

The strong AHS machine—beaten only by West in its seven starts, overall—leads the FRVC in both team offense and team defense. The Terrors, who have yielded an average of only 139.3 running-and-passing yards per game, have the defensive title all but clinched. They lead runner-up Manitowoc by 249 yards—and only a complete collapse in the last game allow the Ships to close the gap.

The only other Terror team to win total defense honors since FRVC records were started (1946) is the 1956 championship unit.

No Terrors team has ever won total offense honors—not even the unbeaten champs of 1947. Appleton goes into the finale with a margin of 58 total yards over Sheboygan Central—which plays the league's second easiest defensive team, North, Saturday.

If the Terrors can keep their offense clicking Saturday, they could become the first AHS team to dominate both of those major statistical departments.

2nd in Scoring, Passing

AHS, which also leads in scoring defense (an allowance of only 7.3 points a game), also has a chance for the scoring and passing championships. The Terrors trail West by nine points and are only .035 behind Fondy, the passing percentage pace-maker.

The 8-0 record posted by the '47 team is the best in the Dillon regime. Both the 1950 and '58 units achieved 7-1 marks. The 1959 team could match this mark.

There's plenty of danger in the Manty attack even though AHS has a per-game scoring bulge of 20.2 to 11 over the Ships. For example, Roger Powalish returned a punt 65 yards in the 7-6 win over Two Rivers; and Al Zipperer ran a kick-off back 75 yards to beat Fondy, 13-7.

Other Long Gainers

Other comparable efforts the long run - minded Ships have turned in are a 63-yard run by Powalish against East; a 62-yard scoring pass play, Paul Buege to Zipperer, against West; and a 90-yard punt return by Zipperer against Oshkosh which was called back because of a penalty.

from tackle to tackle. Tackles Dan Lanphear and Jim Heinke and guard Jerry Stalcup are three of the most feared linemen in the Big Ten.

Hackbart is the big man in the Badger offense. He has passed for 326 yards and gained 165 rushing. Tom Wiesner and Billy Hobbs are the rushing threats while Ed Hart and Ron Steiner also have seen their share of work.

Seldom Lose

Badger ball carriers seldom are thrown for a loss. Wiesner, Hobbs, Hart and Steiner have carried a total of 209 times and have lost a combined total of 42 yards. Hart, in 43 attempts, has not been thrown for a loss this season and has averaged 3.6 yards a carry.

Northwestern has halfbacks Ray Purdin and Ron Burton, plus quarterback John Talley and fullback Mike Stokke to power its off-injured forces.

Purdue and Illinois, who battled to a 7-7 deadlock last week to share third place with 2-1 records, also will try to keep title hopes alive. Purdue is a 3-point favorite at Michigan State (2-2) and Illinois rates a touchdown edge at home against Michigan (1-3).

In other games Indiana (1-3) is a 7-point underdog at Ohio State (2-2) and Minnesota (1-3) is at Iowa (1-3) whose Hawkeyes are a 2-touchdown choice.

Time Out with Mike Drew

Bob Wilson's Reedsville High school football team have won 21 games and lost just four in the last three seasons but Bob prefers to let the players take the credit.

"Four of them were really outstanding," says Wilson. Three, honor roll students, have names which end in the letter "k"—Rod Hynek, Frank Foytik, and Bob Kvittek. The fourth, Rolfe Zipperer, has the most sensational football record of them all.

One of the outstanding ends in the state, the 6-2, 175-pound Zipperer has caught the phenomenal total of 13 touchdowns passes this season. He added two more TDs on end-around plays and one on an 82-yard runback of a pass in interception and scored two extra points for a 98-point season.

Good Blocker

He's a good blocker and defensive player and shortly will be starting for the Panthers in basketball.

Hynek's case is highly unusual. He was the Panther center until this, his senior year. The 5-11, 175-pounder made the adjustment so well that he was on the launching end of all 13 of Zipperer's TD passes, fired another scoring aerial and tallied 33 points himself.

Also a 175-pounder at 5-10, Foytik was the top Reedsville rushing threat. Wilson calls the 180-pound Kvittek "the best lineman ever to play here. A 3-year regular, he has the unusual distinction of serving as his club's co-captain in both his junior and senior years."

Reedsville High has fielded a football team only since the 1950 season. Before Wilson's 4-year reign began in 1956, the focal point in Reedsville sports history was the state basketball championship won by the 1946 "Cinderella" Panthers—Ed Shimon, Roman Kugale, Bernard Kubale and company.

Since '46 Reedsville has

Withdraw Bench Warrant for Arrest Of Lions' Johnson

Oakland, Calif. —A bench warrant for the arrest of Detroit Lions' fullback John Henry Johnson in an alimony and support case was withdrawn Thursday on testimony that he had made a payment.

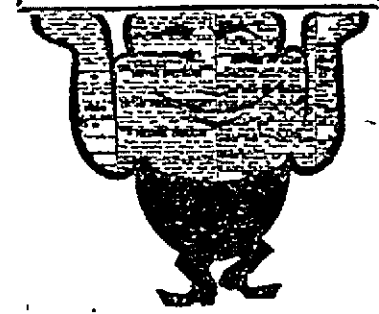

Judge William J. McGuinness acted after Johnson's attorney, Joseph Murozumi, said the griddle had paid $305 of the $2,360. He was in arrears and would pay the rest as he can.

Johnson was suspended by the Lions after he missed the plane back to Detroit Sunday after a 33-7 loss to San Francisco's 49ers.

Judge McGuinness said the payment "indicates good faith and I hope this (lifting of the warrant) will help him be reinstated and play better football."

about 20 yards to the Viking 28. Five plays later fullback Roger Crass drove over for the touchdown, from about four yards out.

The extra points were scored on an under-arm shovel pass — by Neenah's Bill Kuehl, quarterback, to right half Sid Frame—as Kuehl was being tackled.

The Viking defensive defenders played about three-quarters of the game and the entire platoon was lauded by Coach Gene Davis, Linebackers Dick Brostrom, Tom Schinabeck, Tom Bathke, Menasha's Dave Robinson and Fred Flom and middle guard Mike Franzen were outstanding, according to Davis.

Others who played well defensively included tackles George Stanton, Bill Falter and Dave Borth, ends Howie Hamann of Appleton, Lee Smith and Nelson Strom and halfback Gary Just and Cary Wickland.

WIAA Board Increased From 5 to 7 Men

2 At-Large Members Will be Named in 1960

Milwaukee — An increase in membership of the Board of Control of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association from five to seven members has been ratified by high school principals who are members of the organization.

The principals voted unanimously Thursday night to add two at large members to the board—one from the northern part of the state and the other from the south. They will be named in 1960. Other members of the WIAA had approved the enlargement in a mail vote.

Harold Rose, Whitefish Bay principal, was elected a member of the board from the Fifth district. He defeated Oliver Wergin, Milwaukee North, 53-22 and will succeed R. G. Hein of Waukesha who retired. H. J. Antholz of Spooner was reelected District 1 representative, defeating Harry Frokjer of Park Falls, 50-41. The terms are for three years.

Elected to the Advisory council were James Perry of Washburn and John Schliet of Hustisford in Class 1; Elmer Pfefferkorn of Waupun in Class 2 and N. P. Cuperly of Glendale and C. F. Shaw of Berlin in Class 3.

The WIAA increased from $2 to $4 the value of badges, certificates and medals which may be awarded athletes participating in approved recreation programs.

Terror JVs Play Host To Manty

Winner of five of its first six games, the Appleton High school junior varsity football team concludes its season at Goodland field Saturday morning against a strong Manitowoc team.

The Terrors' 1959 record has been a surprise since the club is one of the smallest, both in numbers and player size, in many years at Appleton High. The club hasn't won big—three of the five wins were by one touchdown. The only loss was a 13-8 touthie to Green Bay West.

The Terrors will end the season, regardless of what they do Saturday, with the third straight high finish in Fox River Valley conference JV play, since Gene VandenHeuvel and Keith Kohlman took over operations. AHS was first in 1957 and second last year. Tom Laux and Cary Anderson have been the big ground-gainers.

Althea Deltgen thumped a 220 singleton for Templin's in Hahn's Women's circuit. Elaine Lillge rattled a 543 for the same team, with a 191 along the way.

Haupt's (20-7) is ahead by one game.

Pitz and Treiber won three lines and made Craftsmen's league standings at the Elks club a 4-way tie between Clark Cleaners (15-12), Stranden bar, Glendale and Pitz and Treiber.

Other Grocers honor tallies: Frank Wisnet, 579; Conny Knaus, 564; Mike King, 584; "Rip" Winkel, 562; John Bain, 553; Don Schubert, 552; Mandy Zussman, 551.

In the Hahn's Women's circuit it was Pat Lutz with 199, 520.

Montreal Six Runs Unbeaten String to 9

By The Associated Press
At the rate the Montreal Canadiens are traveling, perhaps the National Hockey league should consider a split season even though that would complicate the Stanley cup playoffs.

The Canadiens increased their unbeaten string to nine games Thursday night when they walloped the New York Rangers, 8-2, at Montreal. Montreal has won seven and tied two games during the string.

This kept the Canadiens in first place by six points. The Boston Bruins also ran wild with an 8-3 victory over the Red Wings at Detroit. This left Boston and Detroit tied for second place.

Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion and Phil Goyette scored two goals apiece for Montreal.

Boston had a big second period, slamming home five goals. Three came in a span of less than four minutes.

Packer Offense Begins to Look Better

and he has been throwing better. The former Cardinal would like nothing better than to be in sharp shape Sunday. He's going "home" to battle the Cards' and the Packers' most hated opponents right in their own backyard.

Actually, the Packer offense has improved considerably since that 9-6 Packer victory over the Bears here last Sept. 27. Offenses aren't made overnight — or over one exhibition season, but the intricate machinery that makes a team score has shown many signs of running smoothly this season.

Lombardi has placed a strong emphasis on offense this week. And, things are looking up because one of his key men, Jim Taylor, is in good running condition. The Bay offense suffered badly by his loss because defenses, for the most part, ganged up on Paul Hornung. With Taylor back, the rest is up to the Packer offensive line.

20 Points
The Bears have been nipped for an average of 20 points in the first six games. The Packers expect to exceed that.

The Packers got the feel of a good defensive game in the loss in New York and they're due to come up with another similar performance. The fiery defenders are in good physical condition, although there are two stiff-neck cases — "Em" Tunnell who picked up his in the New York game and Tom Bettis who was hurt in a collision with Bob Freeman in practice.

Safety aide Johnny Symank is nursing a broken nose but he added an extra bar to the mask part of his helmet "and that should prevent any more trouble."

Symank got an elbow in the nose on the opening kickoff

Sunday while blocking for Billy Butler. "I put it in place on the sidelines," Symank said the other day, feeling of his twisted snoot.

Added Wallace

And speaking of defense, the Bears have added 4-year veteran safetyman Stan Wallace who sat out the first half of the season because of contract trouble. He reported in slightly over his playing weight of 205.

Wallace joins Erich Barnes, Richie Petitbon, J. C. Caroline, Charley Sumner and Pete Johnson in the secondary. The Bears figure to go with Sumner and Petitbon at safety and Barnes and Caroline at the corners, although these four can be easily switched.

The Packers will leave for Chicago on the 10:25 North Western Saturday morning. A sendoff is scheduled by the Packer Alumni association at the depot at 9:45.

The team will fly back from Chicago for the first time in the club's history, arriving home at 7 o'clock.

The Bays will drill at Wrigley field Saturday afternoon.

The Packer lumberjack band, under Wilner Burke's baton, will lend the team support in Chicago, going down by bus Sunday morning and returning right after the game. Expenses are being shared by the Packers and Schneider-Allied Van lines.

Unbeaten Syracuse And Penn State Play For Eastern Honors

Top-Ranked LSU Meets Strong Tennessee '11'

BY JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer

Northwestern, which hasn't played in the Rose bowl in 11 years, and Wisconsin, which has the Big Ten's only loss in the current Big Ten-Pacific coast setup, fight it out Saturday for the probable trip to Pasadena.

However, this game must share the weekend's top billing with the battle for the mythical Eastern championship, between unbeaten Syracuse and Penn State, at University Park, Pa.

Begins Tonight

Thus four members of the current Associated Press top ten have at it while top-ranked Louisiana State will have its hands full with Tennessee and third-ranked Texas tries to improve its position in the Southwest conference title race and subsequent Cotton bowl berth against Baylor.

The weekend play begins tonight in Miami's Orange bowl when North Carolina (3-4) faces Miami (Fla.) which has split six games and whose coach, Andy Gustafson was hanged in effigy earlier this week.

The Penn State - Syracuse affair is being built up as a 7 to 1 battle—Penn State's quarterback Richie Lucas with his 919 yards in overall offense against the Orange's "Sizeable Seven" the linemen who have helped Syracuse to the top nationally in offense and defense.

Syracuse (No. 4) has won all six games while seventh-ranked Penn State has a 7-0 record. Both are being closely eyed by the Orange, Cotton, Gator and newly-formed Liberty bowl committees.

LSU, heading for another national title and Sugar bowl appearance, won't have an easy time with Tennessee (4-1-1). The Vols are a quick, aggressive team that could catch the Tigers (7-0) down a bit after their thrilling 7-3 victory last week over previously-unbeaten Mississippi.

If Texas (7-0) gets by Baylor (3-3) then it has Texas Christian to look forward to next week. Coach Darrell Royal's Longhorns have backs Rene Ramirez, Jack Collins and Bobby Lackey in fine shape.

Southern California (No. 6) plays Southern conference member West Virginia (3-4) in an interconference game in Los Angeles. The Trojans (6-0) and particularly guard Mike McKeever, will be watched closely after last week's alleged slugging incident at California. Southern Cal also will have to watch itself closely over Stanford (30-28) and Cal (14-7) the last two weeks.

3-Week Tie The rest of the top 10 action is in the South where Mississippi (No. 5) plays Chattanooga, Auburn (No. 8) tries to keep its SEC title hopes alive against Mississippi State and tenth-ranked Clemson hopes to stay atop the Atlantic Coast conference against Duke.

The other important intra-conference games are in the Ivy and Big 8.

The 3-way tie in the Ivy should be broken after two Yale and Penn. meet in Philadelphia. Princeton, the other, starts the league's Big Three rivalry against Harvard.

Oklahoma and Kansas, co-leaders in the Big Eight with 3-1 marks, meet Kansas State and Colorado, respectively. The Sooners are trying to start another 74-game unbeaten string.

Television viewers in the Midwestern region can watch the Air Force academy play Missouri, starting at 1:30 p.m. CST, over NBC.

Dejohn 6-5 Over Powell In Syracuse

Syracuse, N. Y. — Un-ranked Mike Dejohn is favored to whip former pro footballer Charlie Powell in a 10-round heavyweight bout tonight in the War Memorial auditorium, but Powell had other ideas.

"I can punch with both hands as well as anybody," said Powell, who broke one of them last June in losing to Roy Harris.

Powell, ranked eighth by the National Boxing association, has not fought since then.

Dejohn was a 6-5 favorite over Powell, a former defensive linebacker for the San Francisco 49ers.

Dejohn, of Syracuse, has a 37-7-1 record, including 26 knockouts. Powell has kayeod 15 of his 20 victims. He has lost four and drew in two other bouts.

The fight will be televised and broadcast nationally on NBC, 9 p. m., (CST).

Mary Jane Wilson Pastes 219 Series

A 219 singleton by Mary Jane Wilson stood at the top of the list in the Women's Monday night bowling league at Twelve Corners earlier this week. She bowls for Stammer's tavern.

Twelve Corners Tavern gained a first place tie with Don and Gerry's (16-8) by winning three games.

Astaire's 2nd Show Called Great Success

Even Excels Last Year's Winner, Reviewer Believes

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

New York — "Another Evening With Fred Astaire"

on NBC turned out to be another evening of great entertainment.

It was his second TV appearance, but he must have had some qualms: his debut last season was the TV event of the year and his show was voted a total of nine Emmys at awards-giving time.

This show not only equaled the first, but in some ways excelled it. The program had a light-hearted, relaxed air about it. Astaire himself is an urbane, witty performer whether dancing with perfection and skill or singing with his unassuming, curiously attractive voice. He was doing one or the other with ease and assurance during most of the hour.

Astaire All The Way He danced with the chorus; he danced alone (here, perhaps, he was at his comic best) and he did several delightful numbers with Barrie Chase.

He sang a new song to open the show, and closed it with a medley of old ones associated with his long theater and film career.

Miss Chase, a blonde youngster with a lovely face and great dancing ability, is probably the best partner Astaire has had since his sister Adele retired from the stage. Barrie was a hit in the first Astaire show, and in the second has much more to do, including an amusing dance satire on the beat generation.

However, it was Astaire's show all the way. It was handsome, colorful, painstakingly planned, and there wasn't a dull or shoddy moment in it.

Why does every realistic police-action series have to have one program about a mad bomber? It was, in memory serves, the subject of Jack Webb's very first TV "Dragnet." Lee Marvin recently exploded his bomb, with the usual seconds to spare, in a lake, and last week Detective Robert Taylor came through in much the same fashion. The tension built up by a ticking bomb is diminished considerably when you know the hero has to be in good shape for next week's episode.

CBS-radio will resume its "Haven Revolution" series Nov. 10 with a show describing the "American Image" abroad—a popular subject on TV this year. ABC did the same on TV with "The Splendid American." . . . The U. S. Attorney General's office has requested TV program-makers to defer all shows dealing with the Mafia, pending the conclusion of the trial of the men who attended the convocation at Apalachin. One of the "untouchables" series was pulled out on short notice. . . . Roy Markham, the character Ray Milland plays in his CBS series, was named on the spur of the moment one day so that Milland could wear his own shirts with the RM monogram during the making of the pilot film. . . . Dinah Shore has replaced France's Yves Montand, whose Broadway debut in a 1-come show got rave notices, for a TV debut Nov. 15 . . . Tennessee Ernie Ford plans to do "HMS Pinafore" this season. His version last season of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado" was so successful he's encouraged to try more of their operettas.

Jingo Offers 'Scoop' On 'Snuzzle' Durante

Columnist Joins Bubble-Bursting Trend; Tells About Mrs. Calabash

BY JINGO

It wouldn't be proper for Jingo to ignore the bubble-bursting season . . . so here goes a bona-fide "scoop."

Jimmy Durante's "Goodnight, Mrs. Calabash" is just a gimmick; nothing more.

How about that, Mr. Van Doren? You see, Jimmy picked up the idea from Joe Pasternak, MGM producer in whose musicals you used to see Old Large Nose. Jimmy and Joe used to play cards. After one long session, Joe put down his pasteboards, yawned, and said, "I've got an early call in the morning—so goodnight, Mrs. Calabash or Calabash whoever you are."

Jimmy liked the sound of it and started using it on his radio shows. It's now carried over into his too-infrequent TV shots.

There you have it. Not a sentimental gesture to a lost love or late, lamented grandmother. Just gobbledygook.

Here's what Mike Connolly, Hollywood columnist, had to say Wednesday about CBS ordering all its shows to be sitcom-pure in wake of the quiz show scandals: "I had a nightmare in which President Eisenhower prefaced a TV address to the nation with an admission that his speech was 'ghosted.'"

"Agreed," says Mike, "that the Quilzings made suckers out of 60 million TV viewers. But, now let's drive out the unscrupulous, money-hungry sponsors whose commercials make extravagant claims for their products—and also the misleading, money-hungry station operators who advertise a movie and then feed us pieces of it interrupted every 5-to-15 minutes by those same phony commercials."

Jingo Lingo: Producers of the Thursday night "Gale Storm Show" are worried. They figure you folks don't know a cycle of new episodes started Oct. 1. Suggestion: Eliminate that worry by forgetting about re-runs, fellas . . . One of Hollywood's all-time favorite Oriental actresses, Anna May Wong, has been set as any every-other-week regular in "Adventures in Paradise" . . . WLWK - TV at 10:15 p.m. today premieres a new man-against-crime series, "This Man Dawson." It stars Keith Andes as the police bulldog.

This Jar-Cover Tower Game Has Tricky Problem to Solve

BY CAPPY DICK

Hunt up five jar covers, all of different sizes. Typical covers to use are those of an ink bottle, a jelly jar, a salad dressing jar, a cheese or sandwich spread jar, a pill bottle and a salt shaker. Choose five of graduated size and you have the needed equipment for the tower puzzle described here.

On a piece of cardboard draw three circles, using the biggest jar cover as a guide. Arrange the circles as in Figure 1. On the middle circle stack up the five covers like a tower with the largest on the bottom and the smallest on top (see Figure 3 in which the smallest cover is the top of a salt shaker). You are now ready to start solving the puzzle.

The problem is to take the moving the lids you must new-tower down, one cover at a time, and reconstruct it on the puzzle.

Build tower with jar covers.

one of the end rings as the boy is doing in the picture. In the moving the lids you must new-tower down, one cover at a time, and reconstruct it on the puzzle. It is not easy to do. You must keep shifting covers from ring to ring. (Moving only one at a time) until you have rebuilt the tower in one of the outside rings. Figure 2 shows a typical stage in the process of shifting.

When you have mastered the puzzle with five rings, try it with eight or even 10 or 12. Remember, each cover must always be smaller than the one beneath it and you may move only one cover at a time.

A Beautiful, Blonde-Beige brocade fashions this simple party dress suitable for all holiday occasions from family gatherings to club dances. The self-belt and slim bodice straps are the only details setting off the belled skirt silhouette and the decorative material.

Elegant Fabrics Make Holiday Party Clothes

Holidays are busy days — especially for women. As soon as the Thanksgiving turkey is cut into left-overs for sandwiches and soup, the rush of Christmas activities will begin.

Smart housewives and career girls will begin to organize their December wardrobes early before the frenzy of gift shopping and addressing Christmas cards begins. Cocktail and party dresses must be chosen; shoes dyed to match and accessories planned before looking as chic and festive as everyone wants to appear for the holidays.

Elegant fabrics have been used in this season's festive clothes and they are as practical as they are pretty. Most have a sealed-in color and are wrinkle-resistant — contributing to the richness of soft crepes, swishing satins and brocades, whispering failles and crisp taffetas.

Flattering Look

This season's look is flattering and lavish — a timely revival of elegance that women will welcome as a compliment to their femininity. Fashion annually stages a return to formality during the holidays for every gala event — always climaxed by New Year's Eve festivities.

Hostess fashions — for informal home entertaining — are enjoying a revival in elegant styles of taffeta and satin. Perfect for brunch parties or evening fireside gatherings, they lend a queenly air to any hostess.

Simple suits — the total of separate pieces — are good for theater dates and holiday teas and receptions. These are beautifully accessorized with tiny hats and bands of velvet or satin and with elegant black shoes, purses and gloves.

There are fashions just as elegant for younger hostesses and party guests, too. Junior and teen-age departments will feature sweetly, simple party dresses of the same beautiful fabrics in youthful styles and at prices suitable for young budgets.

Evening coats are being shown — in lustrous satin and crisp faille. They are very good for evenings on the town as well as lovely wraps for cocktail and ball dresses.

This is the big season for the elegant party-look and the time to prepare for a beautiful and coordinated appearance is now — before the holiday hustle and bustle makes leisurely shopping almost impossible.

Dramatic Contrasts in Black velvet and white brocade create this beautifully tailored suit for theatre-going and almost any other occasion calling for simple good taste. The acetate and cotton ensemble is coordinated with 3-part harmony and the fashion focus is directed to the slightly longer fitted jacket.

This Radiant Theatre Coat covers slim suits as well as bouffant cocktail costumes in well-bred style. Luminous acetate satin fashions the coat which also boasts sealed-in color fastness and wrinkle-resistant qualities.

A Fireplace Fashion Is this opulent ottoman deeply textured in acetate and accented with red velvet bands on the full sleeves. Any woman, whether entertaining at a simple family breakfast or a gala holiday brunch, will feel like a queen in such a luxurious costume.

This Gay, Young Ball gown of acetate and silk taffeta would be sure to make its wearer the "belle of the ball" at any holiday dance. Uncluttered, elegant lines were used to fashion the lustrous material and the bell-shaped skirt is very new in party fashions.

Sheinwold on Bridge Transfer of Suit Used To Stop Over-Ruff Play

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
U. S. Masters Team Champion

What can you do to stop an over-ruff? One way to protect yourself is to trump high enough to shut the opponent out. A second way is to draw trumps before the situation arises. A third way is to transfer the ruff to another suit.

West opens the king of hearts, winning the trick. He next leads the ace of hearts, and East discards the deuce of clubs. West then leads the queen of hearts.

Clearly it will do you no good to ruff in dummy, for East will surely be able to over-ruff. Since dummy has no high trumps you cannot ruff with a high trump. You have been given no chance to draw trumps.

You can still make use of the transfer method. When West leads the queen of hearts, discard a small club from dummy. The idea is to transfer the ruff from hearts to clubs.

West Must Switch
East discards another club, and you follow suit with your third heart. Now West leads the 10 of diamonds, since it would do him no good to lead a fourth heart.

You can win in dummy with the king of diamonds and draw two rounds of trumps. Then you dash the ace and king of clubs and lead your last club. Since dummy is out

Foresters Plan Christmas Party

A Thanksgiving potluck was held at St. Mary Catholic school Wednesday night by the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters. The officers served on the committee.

Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas party to be held Dec. 2 at the school. The program will be presented by the Kimarks, a singing group from Kimberly under the direction of Mrs. James VanDenElsen. Gifts will be exchanged and members are urged to bring baby clothes for the Pope's store-room. Mrs. Harold Heid is chairman.

A memorial service will be held at 8 a.m. Tuesday at St. Mary Catholic church.

of clubs you can ruff your last club in dummy. Nobody can over-ruff, fortunately, and your game contract is therefore safe.

The type of play that South should make at the third trick is sometimes called "discarding a loser on a loser." The chances are that anybody who executes this play in your game is a very good player. The play is very simple but it never seems to occur to the average player.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: S-7 5, H-A K Q 9 8 4 3, D-10 4, C-Q 8. What do you say?
Answer: Bid one heart. You have too many high cards for a shutout bid of three or four hearts, and the hand is much too strong for a pass. You should get the best results from a simple opening bid of one in your long suit.

Pair Should Have Found Other Seats

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I went to a concert the other evening at which the seats were not reserved. We arrived early in order to get seats up front that were vacant and when my husband and I went to sit down in them, we were told that they were being saved for friends. I explained that as there were no reserved seats and their friends were not there, we had every right to take them, which we did. The persons who were saving the seats glared at us and remarked that we were very rude. I think they were the ones who were rude for depriving others of good seats and that we had every right to take them. Will you please give me your opinion on this?

Answer: I'm sorry, but you should not have taken the seats after having been told that they were being saved for friends. You should have found seats elsewhere.

"No Gifts Please"
Dear Mrs. Post: Recently my husband and I received an invitation to the golden wedding anniversary of one of our neighbors. Engraved at the bottom of the invitation were the words, "No gifts, please." I took it literally and sent nothing, although a neighbor of ours sent flowers. I would like to know if we should have at least sent some flowers to the anniversary couple.

Answer: No you were quite right. When they say, "No gifts, please" they mean it!

Holiday Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: I am secretary to an executive who sends out holiday greeting cards to many professional women who are married but known as Miss in business. Should I address them as Mrs. or how?

Answer: If the cards are sent to their offices, address them as "Miss"; if they are sent to their homes, address them "Mr. and Mrs."

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-13, entitled, "Let's Give A Shower," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

His: Well hope you are fine today
Hers: Very much in love 2 col mat

"...A few years ago I was engaged to the boy I am now going to marry but we had a terrible misunderstanding and broke it off. We have now gotten back together. Can you tell me if he is ready to face the responsibilities of marriage and a family?"

You are correct in believing this writer lacks the courage to face responsibilities. He may expect you to act as his mother as well as his wife. There is much insecurity and hesitancy in his unevenly written script with v-bars on the left of the stem.

His writing indicates that he is a great worrier with a lack of confidence in himself. To discover that his low self-estimate is shared by someone else disturbs him greatly and he might put on quite a show of bravado. This may have been the cause of your former breakup.

You are revealed in your writing as affectionate, protective and kindly; the perfect mother. No wonder he is attracted to you! He needs to grow up psychologically or he might find it difficult after marriage to share your love, even with his own children. This attitude on the part of a husband has ruined many a marriage when the first baby is born.

Since your writing indicates a deep desire for serenity in your home, you are deeply distressed by "scenes." Our handwriting changes as we mature. Stay loving, cheerful and reassuring but try to make your boy friend realize that you want to marry a full-time husband, not a petulant child! If he acts up, treat him firmly.

Miss Stafford welcomes letters from her readers. They cannot be acknowledged but the most interesting ones will be used in her column.

Good Lighting for the Bedroom

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

Good lighting for a bedroom by portable lamps pairs them off, two by two, for sound reasons. Two lamps are necessary to make-up by, today's long double and triple dresser must be lighted from two sources, and more than one lamp is required for reading in bed in a bedroom shared by two persons.

It's a sad commentary on bedroom lighting that most women do their faces in the bathroom. The most needed lighting change in most bedrooms is for the right lamps and for make-up, if only to relieve the pressure of family competition for the well-lighted bathroom mirror. It should be possible not only to make-up in a bedroom, but to be perfectly sure how the make-up looks.

The two lamps to make-up by must be tall enough to bring the light in line with the face, and the lighting engineers' recommendation is for 15 inch table of the usual 30-inch height to the center of the shade. This places the light to the most advantage for the seated figure. If make-up is applied standing at a dresser 36 inches tall, the measurement should be 22 inches from the top to the center of the

Lawrence Theater Will Produce Play Of Pulitzer Winner

One of the most prominent playwrights of this era will be represented on the new stage of the Slansbury theater when the Lawrence college theater presents "A View From The Bridge" by Arthur Miller at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 11, 12, 13, and 14.

Pulitzer Prize winner Miller has received the New York Drama Critics' award twice, the Theater Guild National award, the Antoinette Perry award, and most recently, the National Arts and Letters Institute medal in 1959.

Among his most famous plays are "Death of a Salesman," 1949; "All My Sons," 1947; and "The Crucible," 1953. The latter two have already been presented by the Lawrence college theater. "A View From The Bridge" was first given on Broadway in 1955.

A native New Yorker, Miller received his B. A. from the University of Michigan in 1938 and returned there for an honorary degree in 1956. While an undergraduate he received several awards for his original plays. After graduation, he began work with the Federal theater project, sponsored by the Works Project administration to help employ theater people.

Radio Plays

He then wrote plays for CBS radio and toured army camps for script material for "The Story of GI Joe." His first Broadway production, "The Man Who Had All The Luck," proved unluckily to be a flop but was then followed by "All My Sons." Miller is "also the author of a novel, "Focus," which deals with anti-semitism.

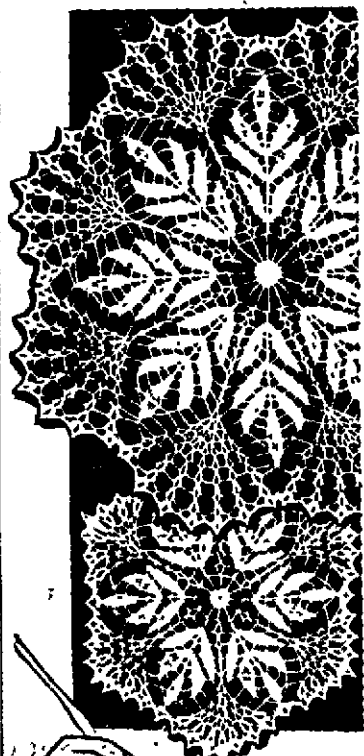

Often a critic of the American socio-economic system, Miller seeks in his plays to depict the struggle of the middle class for security, at the same time that its integrity is dissolving. His favorite theme, noticeable in the college theater's production, is the moral responsibility of the individual to society as a whole, not just his family. His expressed intention is to make theater going a provocative and illuminating experience for the "common man."

Greek Groups Plan Formal Dance Events

Two sororities and a fraternity on the Lawrence campus are having formal dances in honor of their pledges Saturday evening. Gathering at Riverview country club for a dinner-dance from 7:15 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. are the members of Delta Gamma and Phi Kappa Tau, who will present a D.G. "Man of the Year" as well as their pledges. Chairmen of the arrangements are Jane Rossiter, Minneapolis, Minn.; Julie Esch, Sheboygan; Richard Phleger, Neenah; and Jonathan Hartshorne, Hamilton, N. Y. Guests include Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Weiss; Capt. and Mrs. G. E. Dickson, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wenzlau; and Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Rowe, all of Appleton.

The Alpha Chi Omega's dance will be held at the Appleton Elks club from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Nancy Van Meter, Springfield, Ill.; and Cynthia Barton, Chicago, are in charge of the plans. Guests at the dance will be Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Richman and Mr. and Mrs. Bradner W. Coursen of Appleton.

The Verein Doctor

In the Jewish culture, we always avoided revealing the full extent of our sorrow in order to keep going (and also confuse the evil eye). Nothing was ever discussed in precise terms. Either we talked around it or used a euphemism.

Golden
Thus, you would never say a relative had tuberculosis. You always referred to tuberculosis as "a touch." The immigrants pounced upon this linguistic convenience. "He has a touch of bronchitis," they heard the doctors say, and so now tuberculosis became "a touch." "He has a touch." This was not so devastating and it sustained the illusion that the workman could continue going to the shop every day. This happened in the days of the sweatshop and the Jewish cemeteries in Brooklyn and Masspeh filled up with workers who died of "a touch." In those days we joked about tuberculosis: we called it "Jewish asthma," just as we called some people "Jewish millionaires" because they had $3,000 in the savings bank.

He Understood
The "Verein" doctor understood all of this very well. The immigrant Jews formed fraternities here, usually based on the places of origin in the old country. We called them "societies" or "Vereins" and one of the benefits of membership was that you had the services of a doctor. All of this has been erroneously propagandized as "socialized medicine" (which all of us will come to anyway in our growing maturity). The Verein doctor had nothing to do with "socialization." He had to do with health and survival. He was not only a doctor but usually also a philosopher.

The Verein doctor worked in the days before specialized medicine and of course lacked the wonderful remedies and specialized skills doctors have at their command today. Actually, his main weapon was psychological. Your father was sick. There was sorrow in the house. Suddenly the door opened and Dr. Frankel came in—and everybody felt better. His very presence was a comfort. In the Verein you paid 50 cents every three months, and that entitled you to a doctor and you'd be surprised how many doctors competed for the appointment. They had no way of knowing that many of these immigrants and children would rise up in the world and keep them on as personal physicians for life. They were Verein doctors who healed the sick, inspired confidence, and then went into the kitchen and had a glass of hot tea with your mother. A confinement case was "extra" — $15 was the Verein assessment — and if you were a member of the Verein, you received a discount on your medicines. I remember the huge apothecary where we bought the prescriptions. It was right next to Mandell's bank and it was owned by a man named Lindemann who always gave me a piece of kondel-zucker (rock candy) when I came in.

These wonderful men, the Verein doctors, climbed four or five flights of tenement stairs countless times a day. When they discovered Jewish asthma in the chest of a sweatshop worker, they knew they could not advise him to go to a warmer and drier climate. The man had a wife and four children in the house and couldn't afford to lose one day's wages. What could the doctor do for him? Often only prescribe cough medicine and tell the workman to rest as much as possible after work and once in a while the Verein doctor would write on the prescription slip, "Join the cloakmakers' union."

Scout Fund Drive Extended to Tuesday

Kaukauna — The Boy Scout fund campaign in the city was extended through Tuesday by Nell J. McCarty, drive chairman, as drive workers have been delayed in processing solicitation cards.

McCarty asked workers to turn in cards and money to Dave Hartjes, drive auditor, as soon as possible to permit final tally of the amount collected. Hartjes will accept money at the Farmers and Merchants bank or at his home.

television quiz show if they'd put my plan into effect. Not long before ratings forced them off the air, the $64,000 people called me and asked if I'd go on the program. I told the folks I wasn't their man. I wouldn't have had a chance on this deal. I might possibly get by for two or three questions on Shakespeare. But for the life of me I can't tell you when Shakespeare's son-in-law died. I once knew the name of the fellow who printed the First Folio, but I dismissed it from my mind long ago.

But then, free of charge, I offered the $64,000 an idea to help get an additional ten million viewers in the south. Here is the plan:
Put Teddy Nadler in one booth and that Elfrida girl in another booth, and ask them the questions they ask the Negroes in Mississippi to qualify them as voters.
They're interesting questions, like, "How many bubbles in a pound of soap?"
James Grigg Raines, chief registrar of Terrell county, Alabama, said that the five Negroes involved in the federal lawsuit were denied registration because they failed to read the United States Constitution intelligently: "I interpret the law to mean they must read it so I can understand it. . . every one of them pronounced 'equity,' 'equity'." Man to Build Print Shop At Little Chute

Lester Driessen Issued Permit for $25,000 Structure

Little Chute — A permit for a combined print shop and home has been issued Lester Driessen by Henry Dercks, building inspector.

Driessen will build the $25,000 structure at 1412 E. Main avenue.

Driessen presently operates a print shop at 415 E. Main avenue. The shop is listed as Driessen Press.

The inspector reported that three new home permits also had been issued. This raises the total for the year to 21. Total estimated cost of the new structures is $59,200 and that hikes that figure for the year to $271,400.

New Home Permits

New home permits went to David Locy for a $11,000 home at 1106 Hoover avenue, vehicle will automatically stop when an obstacle appears in its path.

The wire or cable would be installed in the surface of the highway. Coils on the car are located exactly the same distance from a center line. This would permit the signal to be picked up at exactly the same spot continually and should the vehicle swerve off the line ever so slightly for some reason, it would be immediately adjusted by the signal.

The automation will be installed on superhighways for the convenience of those who would be traveling long dis-

Models Pass Test

Future Automatic Guidance System for Cars Explained

Kaukauna — Riding in your car without having to worry about speed, accidents or steering was described and illustrated to the northeastern Wisconsin section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at a meeting at the Kaukauna Elks club Thursday night.

Robert H. Kohr, supervisor of vehicle dynamics of the engineering mechanics department of the General Motors Research Laboratories, told of the "Automatic Guidance of Autos."

Kohr's topic is not a dream. It has been worked out and tested successfully with models, one-fortieth the size of regular cars, he said.

The general principle of automatic guidance involves the sending of a signal from a wire in the highway to coils underneath the car. These signals will not only hold the car on course but also will determine its speed and the vehicle will automatically stop when an obstacle appears in its path.

The wire or cable would be installed in the surface of the highway. Coils on the car are located exactly the same distance from a center line. This would permit the signal to be picked up at exactly the same spot continually and should the vehicle swerve off the line ever so slightly for some reason, it would be immediately adjusted by the signal.

The automation will be installed on superhighways for the convenience of those who would be traveling long distances. The advantage of the system would be that the driver would be able to enter the automatic lane, switch his car by means of a lever to automatic control and sit back and relax as he and all other travelers would be guided by a constant speed to their destination.

at 1420 E. Main avenue at a cost of $1,500 and Marvin DeBruin, 406 Johnson street, will finish the upstairs of his home at a cost of $700.

Although it will be a long way into the future before such an automatic system is seen for public use, nevertheless it has been worked out and tested.

County Tax Demand Rises $61,060, Budget Decreases

ey and didn't want to bond or couldn't find the money in the contingency fund and wanted to keep the levy steady. The county meticulously knows the fund, but no one knows or has studied whether the county should have the fund, what it might be used for some day or what it really is for. Fulcher this year indicated it was about time the board looked into the matter.

The fund is invested by the executive committee and the county treasurer each year, earning $9,000 so far in 1959.

Supervisors complained several times during the sessions that the taxpayer's group in recommending that the county operate more currently — in essence eliminate a large share of the surplus and the underestimating of incomes — did not understand the county's operation.

Contingency Ups, Downs

For instance, it was argued, the contingency fund stood near $500,000 at the end of 1958. The 1959 budget took some $338,000 and it now stands at $140,000. Thus, the supervisors argue, the county needed some $20,000 to $30,000 from the account to pay departmental overages, to provide the county with a liquid capital operating base and for any contingencies which might arise.

Three Budgets

The county board debates what might be called an operating budget for Outagamie county. It actually is a combination of three budgets and none is the final tax levy approved by the board. The final tax levy shows a total tax demand of $1,614,305, or $62,354 more than this year.

This total tax demand is made up of county-wide levies totaling $1,547,678 (of which $94,874 are classified as purely state charges although another $100,000 or so are for items set by the state) and $66,627 in various school loans and assorted charges collected by the county and paid the state. Some of the latter are school charges and bridge charges paid by some municipalities.

The budget as presented supervisors and as debated is only a part of the total tax levy, but it is the part over which the board has control. State charges, school loans and the like are unalterable.

Major Additions

Major items added by the board during its four days of debate were $25,000 for salaries to be detailed during the December meeting (including a $4 per day and 1-cent per mile raise for supervisors), $7,000 for an airport survey if the airport committee recommends it, $3,450 for converting the county's main radio station and 30 remote stations to a split channel operation required by the FCC by August next year, $2,400 for $100 monthly salary raises for the municipal and county judges and $2,500 added to the Outagamie Fair association's budget to give it an additional reserve with which to begin its annual August program.

County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeiffer will compute and send municipalities the apportionment of county and state levies and school loans early next week.

made in many other cities. It had nothing to do with plugs."

Considine said he once wrote of the store in his column "In what I considered a newsworthy way" and added that "I'm happy to mention any item of interest that is newsworthy."

Hess, the store owner, had testified earlier he gave Considine $1,000 to visit the store.

In San Francisco, Delaplane said:

"Mr. Hess is an amusing storekeeper and I interviewed him once sitting on a gasoline powered grass cutter. My boss thought it was a funny column and I am inclined to agree with him. My column is not for sale and Mr. Hess did not pay for the interview. His office did pay my expenses of $1,000 to travel to Allentown for the story."

Don't Visit Store

"I never visited the Hess store nor did I ever receive any money from him or anyone representing him. I have had invitations to visit Mr. Hess and his store, and I never accepted."

Boyie, also in New York, said:

"To the best of my recollection I have mentioned Max Hess four times on subjects of feature news interest in the last 16 years or since I began writing a feature column."

"These mentions were made both before and after I visited Allentown, in July, 1955, at which I was paid $1,000 by Hess for making a personal appearance at a business dinner. I wrote nothing about that affair, or anything at all that referred to Hess in 1955."

Appleton's portion of the county levies is $794,286.72, or 51.15 per cent of $1,552,857.72. The total levies charged to Appleton are a combination of state, county and school charges. The 1960 charge is $22,932.63 over this year's $771,354.09.

Specific classifications of the operating county budget for 1960 are $357,839 for general government, $206,950 for protection of persons and property, $118,968 for health conservation and sanitation, $251,880 for education, $1,187,656 for charities and corrections (largest item in the budget, but also one of the most misleading, because much of the total is repaid the county by state and federal governments), $341,125 for indebtedness (highway, hospital and courthouse annex bonds), $445,837 for highways and $53,200 for unclassified expenses (which include the $25,000 for salary and mileage increases and the $7,000 airport survey).

Plan Big Gift To Italians

near Truckee and saved his money.

When he moved to Reno, he invested heavily in real estate and bought stock in his friend's bank. The friend, A. P. Giannini, founded the Bank of Italy. Today it is the Bank of America, largest in the world.

His sons, Joseph and Victor, fought for the United States in World war I. Victor received a purple heart for wounds at Belleau Woods.

Since their father died in 1919, the brothers have administered his estate and continued to build the family fortune, now estimated at more than $2 million.

Joseph, 71, and Victor, 64, are both retired. They have no children. Joseph was once married. Victor has always been a bachelor.

About a year ago, the brothers thought their parents would have been pleased to present a gift to their village.

Decide on Gift

They asked the Bank of America to investigate the possibilities and read intently every word they got of San Marco d'Urri.

Finally they decided: Every man, woman and child in the impoverished village would receive 25 shares in the world's largest bank—a total of a third of a million dollars.

The community has 284 residents. The stock sold Thursday for $48.25 a share. Victor said, "This is in honor of our parents but it's also to create more good will in Italy toward America. We've never been there but we plan to go to San Marco some day."

"This is really going to live in their hearts," said Joseph. "There's one mother with eight kids. She'll get $12,000. Our hearts are warm thinking of those people. They are incredibly poor."

Sunday, Aurelio Gandini, a Milan bank official, will walk up the twisting mountain road that Leopoldo Pietro Saturno walked down 70 years ago. Gandini will deliver the Bank of America shares to the residents of San Marco d'Urri.

Youths Get Crime A Might Mixed-Up

Kansas City — Two 13-year-old boys breathlessly told police they saw a man take a "child's body" out of a truck Thursday.

They said the man covered the body with leaves and sacks in a creek-bed at the Kansas City country club.

pletely above criticism of this kind," the CBS chief said.

"With benefit of hindsight, it is now clear that I should have gone further."

No Scapegoats

He added that "we are not looking for a scapegoat on which to brush off our own shortcomings."

"Whether it is a quiz program, or an advertising commercial or a news broadcast, or whatever, we are held responsible for what appears on CBS," Stanton declared. "We accept that responsibility, and the quiz show scandal has led us to re-examine the whole area of our responsibility."

Stanton said CBS, which already has moved against what it termed misleading practices such as canned laughter and applause, now is preparing to go even farther in this direction.

He said it is also "giving much thought" to advertising commercials.

Complex Problem

The network head says he knows some viewers feel there are too many commercials, "or that some of them harshly intrude upon the mood of the program, or that they are too often blatant, or that they are sometimes in bad taste."

In tackling what he termed this "enormously complex problem," Stanton said, CBS is encouraged by the knowledge that "in the long run it is as much to the advantage of the advertiser as to the broadcaster, that there be public confidence in the medium of television."

Without referring directly to Kintner's testimony yes-man Jerry Boyer sped to the burial spot.

Boyer learned the culprit was the club's caretaker and that he had covered a water pipe to prevent freezing.

terday that NBC is establishing a special security force to police programs, Stanton said:

"After all, with stakes so high, there is always the danger that these programs may be rigged in one way or another—despite a whole squad of investigators in the studio."

"Penalties for violation may be legislated, but not even legislation and the power of subpoena can assure the prevention of violations."

Five of the subcommittee's nine members took issue with the scope of Kintner's proposed new law. Any legislation, they said, should go much farther and should strike at flinching and dishonesty in every phase of the business.

Proposes Penalty

Typical of their comment was the reaction of Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Texas).

"There should be a penalty on anybody who perpetrates a fraud on the airwaves, and that includes advertising," Rogers said.

Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) said "it should apply across the board, to deception in any kind of program."

Hunt For Fraud

But his network has taken vigorous steps to see that it doesn't happen again. Kintner said; NBC has set up a special department—headed by an ex-FBI man—to ferret out any deception or fraud.

Already, he said, NBC has discovered that some personnel on the "Treasure Hunt" show had been exacting kickbacks from winning contestants. These employees were fired and the evidence was turned over to the New York district attorney, he said.

(Jan Murray, owner of "Treasure Hunt," said in New York City last night that he had received a report of kickbacks several weeks ago and had immediately told NBC a footnote that he was living in his caravan and his staff was living in the actual building of the golf links," Allanbrooke said.

He had earlier refused to elaborate in any way on his charges.

Eisenhower made no reply to the charge, and at first his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said he never would have any comment on Allanbrooke's book.

But yesterday, at a White House news conference, Hagerty was told a reporter had checked into the matter and found that Eisenhower played very little golf during the war. Hagerty hesitated, then said:

"Well, I think I can say this: Somebody has exaggerated it. From the time the allies landed in Europe until the victory was won the president didn't have a golf club in his hands, much less play at a golf course."

Near Ruined Course

The invasion was in June, 1944, and Germany surrendered the following May.

Another White House official, who was with Eisenhower then, noted that both in England and France the general's about it. He said the company's policing unit had investigated and he dismissed the two men involved last Thursday at the request of the network. An NBC spokesman gave a similar version of the incident. Murray, of Jantone Productions, Inc., an independent producer, is master of ceremonies on the "Treasure Hunt" program.)

headquarters were located on ruined golf courses.

The golf course at Rheims was not playable at all. In England his headquarters outside London was on a links that had been taken over for military use. Several holes were still usable, Hagerty said, and at that time, before the invasion, Eisenhower occasionally played a few ragged holes for exercise.

Twin City Crews
Apply Salt, Sand,
Scrape With Graders

Neenah — Thursday afternoon's unseasonably heavy snowfall brought out county and city crews to clear the roads and combat slippery conditions.

Leon Morrissey, Winnebago county highway commissioner said county crews started out at 3 p. m. Thursday with 25 units in service. These included graders and trucks to distribute salt and sand on the roads.

The crews worked until 10 p. m. and then started in again at 3 a. m. to reduce the slipperiness of the roads.

Neenah crews began spreading salt on the streets at 4 p. m. Thursday and then went out at 5 a. m. this morning with salt and chips. No graders were sent out.

Menasha crews began salting and sanding and grader-scraping operations after 7 a. m. today.

During Thursday afternoon rush hour, a northeastbound traffic on Ahnaip street was backed up from the Racine street bridge to Nicolet boulevard at 4:30 p. m. Drivers had trouble driving up the mild incline on the bridge, halting traffic.

This morning, southbound traffic on Washington street was delayed up to 40 minutes when cars couldn't go up the slight hill on the bridge. Traffic was snarled back on Main and Racine streets beyond the traffic light at Third and Racine streets. Tayco and Milwaukee street traffic also was bottled up in the jam.

Thanksgiving Card With Calorie Counter, Typical Of Modern Day Greetings

Neenah — A Thanksgiving card with a calorie counter inside is one of the thousands of appropriate messages to be selected from the many greeting card display racks.

It is hardly necessary to be able to write more than one's name as there is a sentiment for every possible occasion and to cover every possible relationship.

Cards are divided into general classifications: holidays, contemporary, birthday, general, illness and thank you. Under these classifications there are many subdivisions. For instance, illnesses can be specified as tonsillitides, operations, accidents, influenza, unintentional stays in hospitals and of course having a baby. One, picturing a sad sack in bed, from an employer, says "Hurry back. You're the only one who can find anything."

There are clear, brilliant colored photographs, reproductions of paintings, pen and ink sketches and caricatures. There are pictures of floral arrangements with or without sparkling mica and sequins. Some of the cards have slots for the insertion of coins or bank notes.

In-Law Cards
They can be sent to grandmothers, secret pals, godchildren, brothers-in-law, uncles, cousins, sons-in-law. In fact, the in-law relationship seems to have become warmer since the advent of greeting cards.

lett Hustlers, Sharon Folske and Janice Drews, Rippling Brook; Lois Manteufel and Mary Tyrivier, Beaver Valley; Judy Whitmarsh, Zion 3-C; Charlotte Haedt, B-Square; Lois Otto, Wolf, River; and Donna Fuhs, Local Lasses.

judging by the sentiments displayed. One card picturing an irate golfer says "You have a keen eye and nerves of steel, the strength of a bear and the heart of a champ; now if you could only hit the ball."

Congratulatory anniversary cards range from the first year to the golden anniversary. One, showing a despondent man holding his head in his hands, remarks, "After years of hard work, sacrifice and undying devotion, what is there to look forward to but more years of hard work, sacrifice and undying devotion?"

A suitor hoping for a reconciliation might send, "I've got radiation sickness since my fallout with you."

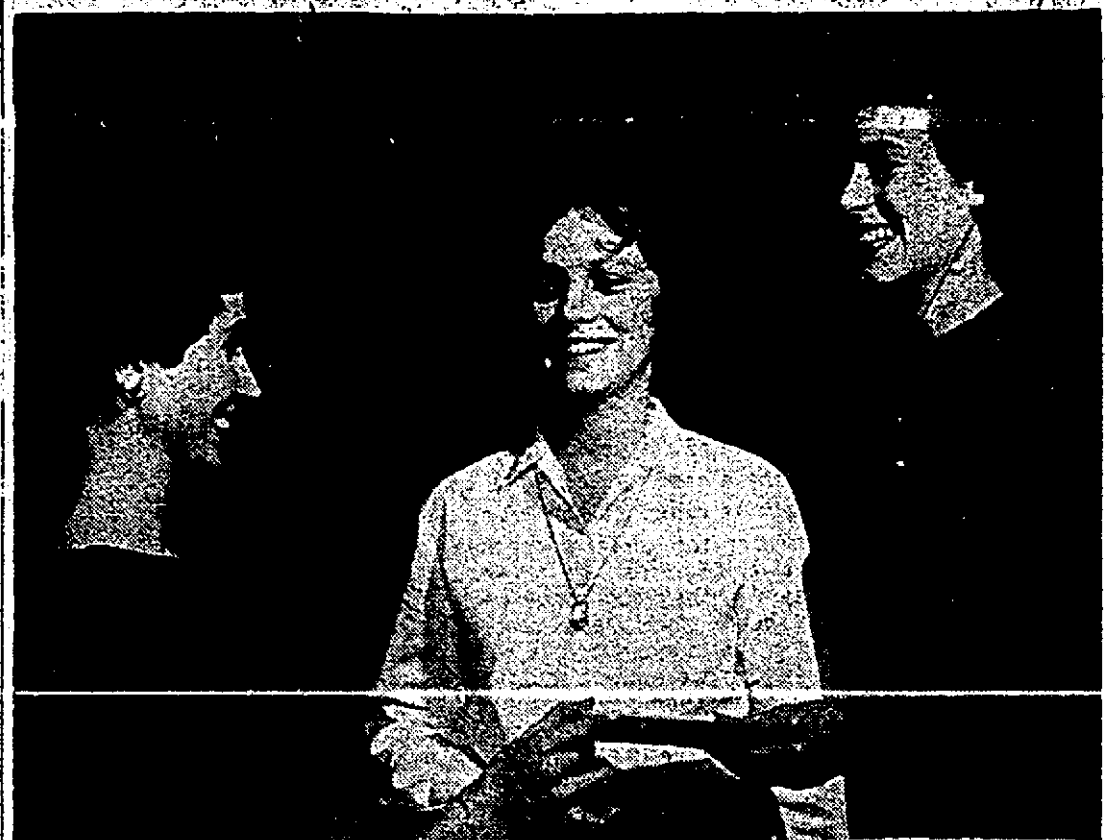

There are religious cards, some with handsome reproductions of stained glass windows, condolence cards for every possible loss, cards for christening and baptisms and even guest books for hospital rooms.

Cynical Message
There are tender and cynical and sadistic cards for husbands and wives to send each other. One notes "It seems only yesterday we were married, wish it were tomorrow—I'd back out." Another says plaintively, "If our marriage was in heaven made they're unskilled labor that ain't been paid."

And one cryptic message proclaims, "My health is ruined but it was worth it."

A birthday card showing a gentlemen holding a milk coat advises, "Don't worry about your present; worry about your future."

Obviously there is no excuse for forgetting anybody, no matter how much one hates to write letters.

Among Winnebago County 4-H girls who received achievement awards for clothing and home furnishing projects Wednesday at Omro High school were Nancy Mailahn and Muriel Smith. Above from left are Mrs. Jeanette Thomas, farm and home development home agent, Miss Mailahn and Miss Smith.

Rocket Title Aims On Line in Finale

Improved Indian Team Here For Important M-E Fracas; Win 'Must' for NHS Eleven

Neenah — The conference of the year. Mired in the second title — or at least, a share thereof — will be the big prize when Neenah closes its football season against Shawano on Saturday at 2 p.m. Saturday. The long weather-beaten season, which began in the 90 degree temperatures last August and harrased throughout by inclement weather, will draw to an exciting conclusion. The facts are clear. Either Neenah will win the title alone (Clintonville, which closes against Two Rivers) will win the title. Victories or losses by both would result in a 2-way deadlock. A win by one and a loss by the other would mean a single titlist.

CHS Plays at Night
The Rockets will have to wait until about 10 p.m. Saturday to find out just how they did finish for the Truckers play a night game. The Rockets know plenty is at stake and the coaches hope to bring forth their best effort of the year. Although the 7-game record shows a tie as the only blemish, the staff feels the boys are capable of doing much better. Shawano certainly deserves the title of the comeback team.

Returning lettermen include Ron Mueller, second leading scorer; Dale Johnson, Jim Kiesow, Bill Freund, Doug Freund, and Ron Heath, starter as a freshman last year. Gone is Bryce Schmude, the squad's top scorer last year with 352 points.

Winnecoonne opens its season Nov. 17 in a non-conference game at Wautoma. The Little Nine opener is at Bear Creek on Nov. 24 and the Wolves have a non-leaguer at Lomira Nov. 27.

Last year's team had a 2-11 Little Nine conference record and posted an 8-14 overall mark. It won its subdistrict but lost to Tigerton is subdistrict play.

Barns Topic At Meeting Of Farmers

1st Session Deals With Remodeling, New Construction

Oshkosh — About 60 area farmers attended the first in a series of four educational meetings on farm buildings Tuesday night at the court-house lounge.

Ed Bruns, extension agricultural engineer, discussed remodeling of the present dairy barn and plans for new construction.

Since many of the older barns were constructed and laid out with small size stanchions, the dairy cows are too crowded for comfort and receive body injury, Bruns said.

Bruns suggested that the average cow should have a stall of at least 4 feet in width and about 5 1/2 feet in length. When new cement work is being done, the gutter width should be approximately 18 inches and the depth 12 inches to accommodate future installation of mechanical equipment or cleaners, he said.

He declared that support posts under the beams should be arranged in such a way to eliminate the danger of the operator being caught between the post and the animal.

The next meeting is planned Nov. 17 at Omro High school when discussion will be centered around pole barn construction and conversion of existing sheds. Donald J. Tripp, assistant county agent, is in charge.

77 Farmers Request Aid Of Soil Bank

6,600 Acres in County Would be Put Into Reserve

Oshkosh — Seventy-seven Winnebago county farmers have applied for contracts in the soil bank conservation reserve, beginning in 1960, Henry Malchow, Neenah, county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee chairman, announced today.

Of the applications 71 call for retirement of whole farms from crop production and the remaining six are for less than whole farm acreage. Total acreage included in the applications is 6,600 acres.

Malchow said the applications will be analyzed and a physical check made of the land offered for the program. Farmers whose applications can be accepted will be notified when their contracts are ready for signature at the ASC office. Farmers also will be notified in cases where applications cannot be accepted, usually because of insufficient funds.

A farmer who signs a conservation reserve contract undertakes to keep specified cropland on his farm out of production and under conservation practices for a period of up to 10 years and to reduce his acreage of harvested crops by a corresponding amount.

In return, the farmer earns an annual rental payment and receives a share of the cost of the conservation program.

Clinic Funds Okayed After Three Years

Last Minute Attempt To Kill Budget Fails Before County Board

After three years of consideration, the Outagamie county board has approved $25,000 to start a child guidance clinic. During the closing minutes of the 4-day budget session, Center Supv. Harold Schmeichel, aided by Ellington Supv. Emmett Root, attempted to have the money cut from the budget, but failed.

Schmeichel Root

It is impractical to hire a psychiatrist who does not have the time for the clinic because he already has too much to do, Schmeichel and Root said.

"We're a long way ahead of our planning in appropriating the money. Put it in the budget when it's needed, not in the budget and then say that it's done," Schmeichel said.

It's not always the children who need the clinic, commented Freedom Supv. Joseph Weyers, but often the parents need treatment more. The state recommends a guidance clinic, not a children's guidance clinic, he added.

Time Agreed

Psychiatrists in Appleton have agreed to work one day a week in the clinic, Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer commented. The executive committee cut the clinic's budget by 25 per cent because it was assumed the clinic could not be set up in less than three months. The $25,000 is for a 9-month operation, he said.

"It doesn't matter what you call it, the need is there," commented Appleton Supv. Glenn Pelton. The county retains control of the money and there was general agreement early this year to budget the money, he declared.

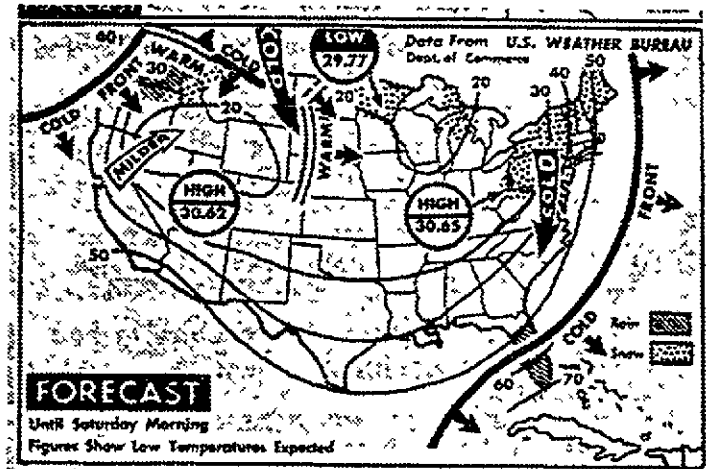

Fulcer pointed out that three county board members will chairman three committees in the clinic operation.

No Control?

Schmeichel and Root indicated several times that they feared the county board would have no control of the money.

"Schmeichel says it can't be done, but nobody knows until it's tried," declared Appleton Supv. Mark Catlin. "Schmeichel has been told the county has control of the funds and clinic committees, what more does he want?" asked Catlin.

In the vote on dropping the appropriation, 13 supervisors voted for no budget item, 33 voted to keep it and one voted present. The vote was along rural-urban lines, with the town supervisors generally voting against the clinic appropriation.

A Few Showers and Snow flurries may take place tonight in the central and northern Appalachians and eastward to the Atlantic coast. Snow flurries also will fall in the Great Lakes area while some showers are forecast for northern Pacific coast states. It will be much cooler from the Appalachians to the east coast and continued cool westward from the Appalachians to the Missouri valley. It will be warmer in the western plain and Pacific coast.

SAGE Alert Causes Brief TV Blackout

er said he received the following message about 5:08 p.m. Thursday:

"This is an air defense line check." The message sounded very serious, Parker said, so he began the alert of the eight stations controlled by WJPG.

The result was that WBAY, WJPG radio stations and WFRV, WLWK and WBAY-TV television stations and several radio stations further north went off the air for about 20 minutes.

Conelrad Frequency Both WJPG and WBAY were making preparations to go on the 1240 Conelrad frequency when the error was discovered.

Arthur Norgaard, deputy civil defense director of Brown county, also was alerted. He checked with the Brown county traffic radio operator to learn whether it had been alerted, as it would have been if the alert were authentic. The sheriff's office had received no message. Norgaard then called Madison and discovered the alert had been an error.

No Appleton stations were affected. They are served by another Conelrad alert center out of Madison.

The semi-automatic ground environment system installation SAGE at Truax, through an electronic system sends alerts to all of Wisconsin and parts of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

Share Prices Edge Higher

Aircrafts, Drugs Lead Trading on New York Exchange

New York —(AP)—A slight edge to the upside developed early this afternoon in an irregular stock market. Trading was fairly active.

Aircrafts were briskly traded and higher. Drugs moved ahead and kept gains as turnover slackened after an active start.

A few small gainers appeared as the steels turned from lower to mixed. Rails also showed signs of life, posting a gain on average after making a very uneven start.

Reylon recovered about a point, wiping out the small loss taken yesterday as the company was spotlighted in the television quiz investigation.

American Motors was ahead slightly and Studebaker-Packard was about unchanged.

Chemicals, oils and nonferrous metals worked generally higher while space age stocks rested, showing very slight changes.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $223.60 with the industrials up 50 cents, the rails up 30 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Corporate bonds drifted lower.

U.S. government bonds edged off in slow transactions over the counter.

Equipment Puts 4-Inch Snow In Its Place

Wisconsin avenue, Memorial drive and Richmond street.

Snow removal equipment may begin carrying away windrows in the centers of streets today—depending upon how much melting comes, Duszynski said. Temperature at 10 a. m. today was 24.

Work all Night

County highway crews were out with sanders and plows at 4:30 and 5 p. m. Thursday. They worked through the night on all main roads but were halted by drifting snow around 1 a. m. today. Brush along trunk highways caught snow and made it six to 10 inches in places.

Highways throughout the state are slippery except for the extreme southeast section, the state highway patrol said.

Weather across the nation was the coldest of the season. A freezing zone, extended from Utah and Idaho on the west to Michigan and Indiana on the east and reached as far south as Texas and Arkansas.

Worst About Over

It appears the worst is just about over, the weatherman says.

Northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan bore the brunt of the nation's snow barrage Thursday. Fifteen inches of snow covered the ground at Marquette, Mich., on Lake Superior, while a carpet of white measured nearly a foot at Wausau.

The storm was blamed for at least seven deaths across the nation, most of them in traffic accidents.

It was 4 below zero at Bismarck, N. D., this morning. The weather bureau said a warming trend was indicated from the north and central plains westward.

Board Plans Salary Talks In December

Civil Service Unit To Recommend How To Spend $25,000

The Outagamie county board adjourned Thursday without action on raises for courthouse workers, including elected and appointed officials. However, with $25,000 in the budget for salary increases, the December meeting seems destined to be the salary meeting.

Traditionally, the board argues salaries for several days before settling on an amount. Civil Service Committee Chairman Sylvester Esler said his committee had a series of recommendations, many based on a questionnaire circulated among employees by their association. The survey was taken about the time the Wisconsin Council of County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, talked to courthouse workers about membership. Courthouse workers, for the most part, indicated little interest in union membership.

More Money

The survey indicated more money was first in interest among employees, vacations second, sick leave third, pensions and Saturday courthouse closing tied for fourth and working hours sixth. The employees group requested a 5 per cent pay increase and additional consideration for workers with five years or more of service, a county employee retirement plan in the near future, an additional week's vacation for workers with 15 years service and sick leave and working hours changes.

There are 97 employed by the county in the courthouse.

Esler said his committee had considered a $300 annual raise for county officials (heads of departments and offices), and Little Chute Supv. Paul Kostka commented that they should get $600 more annually.

The committee plans a revision of longevity pay to inset a pay raise at 7 1/2 or 8 years of $10 monthly, $5 more at 10 years and $5 more at 15 years, thus giving $20 more monthly to county employees with 15 years or more of service. The committee also planned to add a week's vacation for long-time employees, giving three weeks after 15 years of service. Esler pointed out that there are about 25 courthouse workers with more than 20 years service, about 20 with 10 or more years.

Esler did not detail raises for rest of the courthouse employees.

During its sessions, the board gave the county and municipal judges an additional $1,200 annually and the 100 or so county highway workers 5 cents an hour more.

Mayor Tells Resident City Can Do Nothing On Backyard Water

Paul Boettcher, 1828 E. Pauline street, has reopened the question of city council action to correct backyard drainage problems.

After telling the council of the plight of people in his neighborhood, he was told by Mayor Mitchell the city cannot do work on private property, that an easement would be required.

The question is academic, the mayor indicated, because the city hasn't the equipment to do the work.

Green Bay Man Ordered to Pay

Federal Judge Finds No Intent To Defraud on Tax

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — A federal judge has found Henry J. Umentum, route 3, Green Bay, not guilty of intent to evade income taxes but at the same time ordered him to pay a total of $26,142 in back taxes for 1944 to 1951.

The case was argued before Federal Judge William Drennan, Washington, D. C., in Milwaukee last March.

Officials for the commission of internal revenue claim-Umentum failed to pay taxes on 84 per cent of his income during that period. They reported his net worth at $136,380.39, and during that period said his tax returns showed an income of $6,237.91. They sued for $61,481 in back taxes.

Kept Bad Records

Judge Drennan ruled that Umentum must pay $25,843 back taxes for 1944 through 1951, plus $299.04 in penalties.

Through his attorney, Melvin De Wane, Green Bay, Umentum claimed he was not familiar with the tax laws, and lost money on several cattle transactions and poor business loans.

At one time he owned an estimated 600 to 650 cows and bulls

Police Resume Search for Judge's Body

Chicago—A search for the body of a missing judge was resumed today in Lake Michigan, weather permitting, for a floating object seen near a spot where missing Federal Judge W. Lynn Parkinson last was seen Oct. 26.

A member of a police boat crew spotted the object late Thursday afternoon and said it appeared to be a body. It vanished before the vessel could reach it.

Other police and Coast Guard boats raced to the scene and a helicopter circled overhead, but darkness put a halt to the operation.

Police generally believe Judge Parkinson, 57, a member of the U. S. circuit court of appeals here, drowned. They theorize that he fell, jumped or was pushed into the lake while walking near his apartment on Lake Shore drive.

The floating object was seen off the site of the court building, just a few blocks from the judge's apartment.

Minor Mishaps Reported in City, County

Two Injured in Separate Crashes; Many Cars in Ditch

Nine city accidents and nine county accidents during hazardous driving conditions Thursday were reported by city and county police. None of the accidents was serious, although two injuries were reported.

Numerous cars also skidded into ditches in the city and county, police report. Driving conditions were extremely poor, they said.

A car driven by Mrs. Raymond Arndt, Medina, went into a skid on Highway 10 just west of Highway 76 about 4:15 p. m. Thursday, riding half on the road and half off. The car struck the guard posts on a bridge over a creek, managed to stay on the bridge, but rolled over in a ditch on the other side.

Ankle Bruised
Three Arndt children were in the car. Diana, 14, received a bruised ankle. Judy, 9, and Robert, 4, were uninjured. Patrolman Stanley Arnold said the family was "extremely fortunate."

The car struck a bridge sign installed a few days ago in place of an abutment. Had the abutment still been there, Arnold said, the accident could have been very serious.

Two other people were injured in a 2-car crash about 10:30 a. m. Thursday on County Trunk S about 2 1/2 miles east of New London. Richard Puffe, 6, received a cut on his forehead and Richard Ballofsky, 75, an injured right knee, county police said.

Both were passengers in a pickup truck driven by Clarence E. Puffe, 64, route 1, Shiocton, that collided with a car driven by Charles W.

Funeral Set For Victim Of Accident

Black Creek — Funeral services for Robert James Nachtwey, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Nachtwey, route 2, Black Creek, who was struck by a car and killed near the entrance to his farm home about 4 p. m. Speaker Traces Role of Women in Government

Tells Democrats Men Still Doubt Women's Ability

Mrs. Vel Phillips, Milwaukee, is a dedicated Democrat. After missing train connections from Milwaukee to Appleton Thursday night, Mrs. Phillips took a taxi 90 miles to fill a speaking engagement at the Appleton YMCA.

Despite icy roads beginning 40 miles north of Milwaukee, and a minor collision with a gasoline truck, Mrs. Phillips spoke to 50 members of the Outagamie county Democratic party, chatted with local officials, then left by taxi for Milwaukee at 11:20 p. m.

Mrs. Phillips discussed the role of women in government. Her career in politics includes a post as the first woman elected to the Milwaukee city council, and she is the first Negro woman to serve on the National Democratic committee.

Received Awards

She is a practicing lawyer, and in 1957 received the Junior achievement award for outstanding contribution in politics and the Junior Chambers of Commerce award as the woman of the year in politics and government. She recently completed a state department movie depicting the role of minority groups in the United States. The film is designed to counteract Russian propaganda.

Mrs. Phillips told the group women first entered politics 72 years ago when Elizabeth Cady Stanton drew up the first resolution for women's rights and presented it to a convention of women in Seneca Falls, N. Y.

The resolution was adopted, but the uproar it caused among the male population caused many of the women to strike their names from it.

Although the area was in favor of abolition, Susan B. Anthony was burned in effigy for an abolitionist speech. The men believed in what she said, but not in her right to enter the realm of politics, Mrs. Phillips said.

Women's Function
After the Civil war, Congress adopted the Fifteenth amendment and gave the vote to former slaves. The women found these new citizens had more rights than they did, she said.

"Since then women have become the conscience of our political structure. They stand for high ideals and honesty."

"The day is near when women will enjoy complete emancipation in government."

and political affairs," she predicted.

She said the growth of women in politics depends on individual family relationships. A mother of two small children, Mrs. Phillips said a woman has a duty to her family, but can be active in politics. She cited the League of Women Voters for awakening women to opportunities in politics, and said she first participated in political affairs by addressing post cards for Henry Reuss when he ran for mayor of Milwaukee.

James Megallas, Fond du Lac, executive director of the Wisconsin eastern district of the Democratic party and president of the Fond du Lac city council told the group the political party has three main functions.

He said a party should spread information, induce qualified people to run for office, and then elect them. Women are assuming a greater role in these political functions than was imagined possible a few years ago, he said.

A 13-year-old Appleton boy was caught shoplifting Thursday afternoon in a downtown variety store.

Police said the boy admitted the thefts. His mother was notified and the case turned over to the department's juvenile officer.

Progress Can Destroy World, Says Speaker

Dr. L. B. Slobodkin Tells Collegians It 'May Be Too Late'

"Too much progress can destroy our world completely," Dr. L. B. Slobodkin, assistant professor of zoology from the University of Michigan, told Lawrence college students Thursday in Memorial chapel.

"Man is now changing the condition of the world much more rapidly than it was ever changed in the past. We already see the consequences as species after species becomes extinct, and the chemical, physical and even thermal properties of the world are altering," he related.

"It may be too late. We may have already turned one too many fields into parking lots or five too many trees into telephone poles. Already the readjustments in the natural world which may result in the rejection of man as a species may have begun," Dr. Slobodkin pointed out.

Discussing the control of progress, the speaker asked, "Are we to suddenly regiment all natural resource utilization, apportion the permission to have babies, eliminate all new factories, stop all luxurious consumption, ration gas and turn all colleges into ag schools? What is the moral way to treat the world?"

Not Only Answers
Population control of the overcrowded areas is not the answer until the United States has faced the moral decisions of conserving the earth's resources in its own way, he said.

"Khrushchev accuses the United States of being wasteful," the speaker said. "I ask you to check your gas consumption, fuel consumption, food consumption, your garbage pail and your clothes closet before you say he's just making propaganda. Compare the cost of your last vacation — not just the money but the drain on the world's resources — with that of a vacationing Japanese before you tell him how much of a burden his children are on the world."

Man himself has added another sphere to the already existing geosphere and biosphere; he has created a shell of intellectual artifact around the earth — the noosphere or sphere of the intellect, Slobodkin stated.

Man's intellect has decided to control fire on the earth, yet certain species like sequoia trees depend upon periodic fires to permit reseeding. "The danger of forest fires increased by the lack of forest fires. Smoky the Bear may yet burn down all the beach houses at Malibu," he said.

Altered by Man
Man's intellect has altered the chemical state of the earth's surface, the zoologist went on. "The pure iron mountains of Minnesota have almost vanished in this century to make locomotives for Japan; oil from Kuwait is now heating synagogues in Kansas City." It may be necessary to control fire on the earth, yet certain species like sequoia trees depend upon periodic fires to permit reseeding. "The danger of forest fires increased by the lack of forest fires. Smoky the Bear may yet burn down all the beach houses at Malibu," he said.

Burglars Get 1 to 3 Years in State Prison

Two reformatory parolees who were surprised burglarizing Schaefer Grocery store early Wednesday morning were sentenced today to 1 to 3 years in state prison at Waupun.

They are David J. Hendricks, 21, 1102 N. Superior street, and Arthur E. Sullivan, 23, 325 E. Taft avenue.

Both men pleaded guilty to two counts, burglary and theft.

They were startled Wednesday morning by Patrolman David Karr who was making a routine beat check at the grocery.

When arrested by officers who broke in a rear door, Hendricks had $8 and Sullivan $18 from the store's till.

Both men were on parole from the state reformatory where he had sent them previously for burglary, Judge Oscar J. Schmiede said.

essay, when concentrations of metals and fuels have been dispersed, to imagine a post-metallic world, he pointed out.

Most recently, man's intellect has been altering biological laws. Dusting the earth liberally with radioactive debris may make it unfit for habitation, he said. "Mutation rates are known to be altered by radiation, and there have been changes in the composition of the atmosphere."

It takes 1,000 years for the ocean and air to return to equilibrium. In the interim, temperatures will be slightly higher, plants will grow more rapidly and animals and man will breathe more quickly, Slobodkin said.

"These three changes each have their own consequences that will ricochet down time, in ways we can hardly imagine at the moment," the speaker pointed out.
